Roosevelt Victory Saves W. E. C. From Collapse

FRANCE DESERTED BY GOLD ALLIES WHEN TEST COMES Receiving Aid From Canada, Hull Turns Seemingly Hopeless Steering Committee Fight Into Smashing Triumph.

MONEY AND TARIFF BARRED AS ISSUES

Discussions Will Be Continued With Two Troublesome Items Eliminated From Official Agenda

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—The world monetary and economic conference, given up as lost by prominent delegates even as late as this morning, was saved from complete collapse today by President Roosevelt, acting through his secretary of state, and with the assistance of the Canadian prime minister.

A decision to continue the conference, but with monetary and tariff matters excluded, was reached by the steering committee in the second of two meetings during the day. Acting on last-minute instructions from the president and disregarding the vote of his own delegation favoring a recess, Cordell Hull, American secretary of state and chief of the United States delegation, made a quiet and earnest but dramatic plea to the committee for the life of the conference. He was vigorously and promptly supported by R. B. Bennett, the Canadian prime minister.

France Deserted. Georges Bonnet, chief of the gold bloc forces which had brought the conference to an impasse seemingly making a recess unavoidable due to conflict over stabilization of currency, finally found his forces crumbling. In the end he was the only member of the committee to demand an adjournment.

The conference was saved not without a compromise to the recalcitrant gold group, however, as the resolution finally adopted by the committee set forth their right to consider any monetary questions.

Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, whom the gold group had regarded as at least lukewarm toward their proposal, responded to the vigorous plea by Bonnet, speaking for all the British dominions, and he also quickly got behind the move to keep the conference alive.

British quarters pointed out that the resolution drawn up by the committee in no way bound other countries not to consider monetary problems among themselves, but the question as to how much the world parley had been saved was left for subcommittees to work out. A report will be made to the steering committee next week, probably Monday.

Off Slate. The viewpoint of the gold bloc members, as well as of some others, was that monetary questions as well as tariffs, quotas and all other trade restrictions which might be useful in protection against goods from countries.

Nazis Place Pressure On German Ministers

BERLIN, July 6.—(AP)—The German Christians, a Nazi church organization, today served notice on Protestant ministers that unless they joined the movement by July 15 they will not be admitted to membership in the church.

Theological students of the University of Berlin at a demonstration in favor of a Reich church were told by Nazi speakers that unless they joined the movement by July 15 they will not be admitted to membership in the church.

A leader of the German Christian group insisted that the Reich church must crown the third Reich and that it must be distinctly Aryan, standing for exclusive German Christianity.

On a protest of the Russian embassy, a mass demonstration scheduled for the Lustgarten tomorrow "on behalf of starving Volga Germans," has been called off.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS USED AS 'LEVER' FOR RECOVERY ACT

Cummings Warns of Prosecution for Recalcitrant Industry; Cotton Code Submission Is Delayed.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Attorney-General Cummings said in a statement today that United States industries would either have to "come under the wing" of the industrial recovery act or be subject to prosecution under the anti-trust laws for any violation of the statutes.

Strict wading out of non-essential construction projects from the government's public works program was advocated today by Director Lewis W. Douglas, of the budget, as he assisted President Roosevelt in scanning the long list of undertakings proposed by the special public works board.

The budget director, talking to newsmen after conferring with the president, emphasized that he was seeking caution all along the line in the big expenditure and that he was urging emphatically that the states be required to show balanced budgets before they be allowed to participate.

To Cull List. Mr. Roosevelt, who some time ago urged that only useful projects be included in the $3,300,000,000 building program, was expected to cull the list of projects.

Meanwhile, the president called in Secretary Wallace, George N. Peek, the farm relief administrator, and Hugh Johnson, industrial administrator, to work out an agreement by which it was decided to leave all administration of food and food products industries to the agricultural department and the agriculture and justice departments already have started looking into the question of food price increases.

Report Delayed

Johnson, who made his report on the cotton textile industry's code of fair competition ready for submission to the president, postponed presenting it today on the ground that he would find time today to give the chief executive a thorough-going review of developments under his administration.

One matter still to be threshed out in relation to the cotton code, first to be submitted and the only one so far subjected to a hearing, was the proposal for elimination of the stretch-out system in cotton mills. This is a method whereby individual employees are given increasing numbers of machines to tend.

COMPETITIVE CODES DRAWN BY UNDERWEAR MAKERS

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Three suggested codes of competition for underwear manufacturers were brought forward today as the executive committee of the American Knitwear Manufacturers' Association began consideration of rules to be presented for approval under the recovery act.

Lindberghs May Start Ocean Flight Today

NEW YORK, July 6.—(UP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh may take off at noon tomorrow on the first lap of their flight to Greenland. It was indicated tonight at the airport plane where the Lockheed monoplane to be used by the famous couple is being conditioned.

Balbo Air Armada Delayed by Weather

NEW YORK, July 6.—(UP)—Start of the Italian air fleet for Labrador in the morning has been postponed, dispatches to the Mackay radio in New York reported late tonight. It was presumed bad weather over the treacherous north Atlantic was responsible.

Long Line of Decreases Outlined as Commission Begins Answer to Labor Body's Ouster Charges.

Citing a long line of decreases in electric energy, gas and telephone rates through its expert, E. M. Price, and numerous commercial users of electric current, the Georgia public service commission Thursday began what is expected to be a speedy answer to ouster charges brought against its membership by the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the Georgia Federation of Labor.

Price's Testimony

Governor Eugene Talmadge, before whom the proceedings have been in progress, entered a night session Thursday night and said he had been informed by opposing counsel that there was every possibility of completing the presentation of testimony today. If such is accomplished it is considered likely that the governor will order arguments on the case Saturday and bring it to a conclusion Saturday night.

Wholesale Reduction in Local City and County Taxes, Offering Taxpayers Relief Similar to That Given Wednesday by Governor Talmadge when he cut the state ad valorem rate 20 per cent, were made public Thursday as the city of Atlanta announced the slash of an additional $400,000 in city tax assessments for 1934.

City Again Cuts Tax Assessments

Additional $400,000 Reduction Announced by Taxing Authorities.

Wholesale reduction in local city and county taxes, offering taxpayers relief similar to that given Wednesday by Governor Talmadge when he cut the state ad valorem rate 20 per cent, were made public Thursday as the city of Atlanta announced the slash of an additional $400,000 in city tax assessments for 1934.

Wholesale Reduction in Local City and County Taxes, Offering Taxpayers Relief Similar to That Given Wednesday by Governor Talmadge when he cut the state ad valorem rate 20 per cent, were made public Thursday as the city of Atlanta announced the slash of an additional $400,000 in city tax assessments for 1934.

As a result of the Atlanta tax assessment reduction, the city's revenue will be cut by about $600,000 for the year and will force the total slashes in assessments to about $1,150,000 since Mayor James L. Key took office. Atlanta will save $800,000 in taxes during the year, which supplemented by the $250,000 Governor Talmadge struck from the state taxes, will make an aggregate saving of $850,000.

638,000 Jinky Receipts Entered; Chicago Fair Contest Is Warm

By THE JINKY EDITOR. I promised Thursday to tell you just how many receipts were entered in the contest Wednesday. It was a surprise to me. I almost had my thrill this week instead of next. I never thought that I'd come in where near a million, not even in receipts. I've done so much counting that I walk along the street mulling to myself—186,572—186,572—and so on, far into the night, as I lay the news, 638,000. That I'm afraid, will be only a part of the number that are entered next Wednesday.

Detroit Team Wins Bridge Pair Honors

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—A Detroit card team, Archie Morse and W. L. Culligan, today won the World's Fair contract bridge pair championship by piling up a total of 478 points in the three-day match.

A Los Angeles team, John Berber and Banks Hanner, placed second in the hotly contested play. The Californians amassed 473 1/2 points. A Chicago team was third.

Ottley Talks With Police Chief; Youthful Kidnapers and Ransom Note

John K. Ottley, president of the First National Bank, is at home today, little the worse physically or financially, for his kidnaping from the driveway of his Peachtree road home early Thursday morning.

Meanwhile intensified search for the elder of two men who abducted the banker and held him for $40,000 ransom near Suwanee, in Gwinnett county, was under way.

Chief of Atlanta Police T. O. Sturdivant announced this morning that he was seeking a man known as Grover Collins, of Salt Lake City, Utah, as the instigator of the plot. Collins registered at the Wesley Memorial dormitory Wednesday night. He gave his occupation as a photographer.

YOUTH DESCRIBES OTTLEY KIDNAPING

Says He Went Along for Purpose of Freeing Victim and Getting Job.

Pryor Bowen, 17-year-old Lavonia (Ga.) boy, who drove the car in which John K. Ottley was kidnaped Thursday, told Police Chief Sturdivant his own story Thursday night.

"I came to Atlanta Tuesday," he said. "I am in the tenth grade and I wanted a job. I went to the Salvation Army and there I met a man who said his name was Grover."

"He was about 25 years old. He had black, wavy hair and when he walked he swung his shoulders from side to side."

"He wore a light suit, a white dress shirt and a dark tie with purple stripes and two-toned tan shoes."

"I spent July 4 with him at Piedmont park. We stayed around all day. He asked me if I wanted to work and make some money and I said yes, that's what I came to Atlanta for."

"Well, I've got a plan that will get you $10,000 easy," Grover said. I asked him what it was and he told me it was kidnapping a rich man."

"I said 'Nothing doing.' He mentioned it again and I asked him to tell me what the deal was."

"Grover said he had been working on the thing for three months and had it all figured out. He said he had a bundle with the necessary tape, rope and stuff left at a place where we could get it."

"He told me that all I had to do was drive the car and stay with the man while he went back and saw to getting the money."

"I figured if that was all I had to do, I'd do it."

"The new minister was enthusiastic over his coming labors on the other side of the Atlantic as he boarded the Ile de France."

Steinhardt said he was taking no message from the president to the American delegates to the economic conference in London.

"My stop in London has nothing to do with the economic conference," he said. "While there I undoubtedly will meet members of the American delegation, but not for the purpose of imparting information. I have no specific instructions to give anyone from the president."

17-YEAR-OLD BOY ASSISTS BANKER IN MAKING ESCAPE

Trace of Man Known to Youth as 'Grover' Is Sought After Trap Fails; Ransom Note Delivered Demanding $40,000.

STORY OF CAPTURE TOLD TO POLICE

Accosted by Pair Shortly After Leaving Home and Taken to Lonely Spot Near Suwanee.

John K. Ottley, president of the First National Bank, is at home today, little the worse physically or financially, for his kidnaping from the driveway of his Peachtree road home early Thursday morning.

Meanwhile intensified search for the elder of two men who abducted the banker and held him for $40,000 ransom near Suwanee, in Gwinnett county, was under way.

Chief of Atlanta Police T. O. Sturdivant announced this morning that he was seeking a man known as Grover Collins, of Salt Lake City, Utah, as the instigator of the plot. Collins registered at the Wesley Memorial dormitory Wednesday night. He gave his occupation as a photographer.

The younger man, Pryor Bowen, 17, of Lavonia, who assisted Mr. Ottley in escaping, remained with officers of Atlanta and Fulton and Gwinnett counties seeking trace of the plot. Ottley was on his way to his office and was driving a Ford V-8 closed car.

As he reached the main artery of traffic, he was accosted by a man smartly dressed, but a man whom he had seen several times within the past few days near his estate. When he stopped to find out what the man wanted a gun was pressed into his side and Mr. Ottley was ordered into the rear seat of the car. Bowen, the youth, was then instructed to drive.

The abduction was carried out with such precision and lack of the spectacular that it was completed and the car was on the way north within a minute after Mr. Ottley was accosted.

Mr. Ottley's escape was effected about an hour after the arrival of the men and their hostage at a six mile north of the town of Suwanee. When the trio arrived at the spot "Grover" ordered the youth, Bowen, to guard the banker until he "Grover" could return to Atlanta.

The ransom note demanding $40,000 of Mrs. Ottley. Bowen, after ascertaining that "Grover" had departed, removed the tape from Mr. Ottley's car.

Steinhardt Departs On Special Mission

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, newest of President Roosevelt's envoys, sailed for Europe today on a twofold mission—to take over his office as American minister to Sweden and to make an official study of the problems involved in recognition of soviet Russia.

The new minister was enthusiastic over his coming labors on the other side of the Atlantic as he boarded the Ile de France.

Steinhardt said he was taking no message from the president to the American delegates to the economic conference in London.

"My stop in London has nothing to do with the economic conference," he said. "While there I undoubtedly will meet members of the American delegation, but not for the purpose of imparting information. I have no specific instructions to give anyone from the president."

Postal Receipts Here Continue to Increase

WASHINGTON, July 6.—For the six month year the Atlanta, Ga., postoffice showed a substantial increase in postal receipts during June. Postmaster James A. Farley's department today announced.

Postal receipts at the Atlanta office last month totaled $285,068.85, while in June, 1932, the receipts were $272,417.33, an increase of $12,651.52. The percentage of increase this year over the corresponding period last year was 4.64.

In contrast to the increase reported by the postmaster-general this year, receipts for June, 1932, showed a decrease of 14.97 per cent under receipts for June, 1931, and receipts for June, 1931, showed a decrease of 7.48 per cent under receipts for June, 1930.

Only two postoffices out of a selected list of 50 office throughout the country showed a decrease in postal receipts during June of this year under June of 1932. They were the offices at Detroit and Dayton, Ohio.

"Sumpin New" Baffles Negro Truck Driver

RICHMOND, Va., July 6.—(AP) A negro applicant for a truck driver's license was undergoing examination at the division of motor vehicles and was asked to read and explain various highway signs.

"I can't read 'em but I know what they mean," he informed the examiner.

The officer looked over the array of yellow and black markers for curves, narrow bridges and railroads and selected one which read, "Slow, fresh oil."

"What does that one mean?" he queried.

The negro gave it close scrutiny and said: "Dat sign means sumpin been done since I driv last."

BEER FAILS TO HURT SOFT DRINK BUSINESS

DAYTONA BEACH, July 6.—(AP) Local bottling companies reported today that, despite their fears when beer first became legal, there actually has been a small increase in consumption of soft drinks over the same period last year.

KANSAS PROFESSOR STUDYING REPTILES IN NORTH GEORGIA

Dr. Charles E. Burt, professor of biology at Southwestern College at Winfield, Kan., is in northern Georgia this summer under the auspices of the United States National Museum. Dr. Burt is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is one of the foremost herpetologists of the country. He is specializing in the study of lizards and has published many papers on reptiles in general. One of his outstanding works was done on the race-runners, a genus of lizards inhabiting the new world. He also has reported the herpetological results of the Whitney South Sea expedition for the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Dr. Burt will collect a large series of specimens of reptiles and amphibians for the National Museum, which will be used in studying the zoological relationships between the fauna of northern Georgia and the adjacent sections of the southeastern states. This work will doubtless shed light on the questions of distribution, variation and habits of the local species. Dr. Leonard Stejneger, of the National Museum, is particularly interested in the soft-shelled and mud turtles in the three main river basins of northeastern Georgia and is sponsoring Dr. Burt's trip. Mrs. Burt accompanies her husband and assists him in the field preparation of specimens. FENN FUNERAL RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Jefferson Fenn, 71, well known in Atlanta, who died Wednesday night at his home in Suwanee, Ga., will be held at 11 o'clock this morning from the Peachtree chapel of the Brandon-Bond-Condor Company. Interment will be in Oak-land cemetery.

Mr. Fenn was connected with the Charleston Bagging Company as traveling representative and was widely known over the south. Pallbearers will be Alex King, J. S. Kennedy, L. W. Traylor, F. M. Akers, Hardy Padgett and M. C. Rhodes.

National Guard Fund Slashed $9,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The national guard today accepted Budget Director Douglas' $9,000,000 cut for its 1934 training but observed, in passing, that the chief of staff had applied only an 11 per cent cut to the regular army compared with the 45 per cent for the militia.

The comment was contained in a resolution adopted by adjutants general or their representatives from 34 states. To bring up to full quota the annual armory drills, the guardmen officials said they would hold 12 drills without pay.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The navy's new dirigible Macon crossed over Manhattan's spires for the first time at 10 p. m. (E. S. T.) tonight and headed down the length of Long Island on an all-night training cruise. The ship was sighted 15 minutes later over the northern shore of Long Island. Headed seaward, it was traveling approximately 70 miles an hour at an estimated elevation of 1,200 feet.

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES

by Sally Saver

Naturally there will be hundreds of you "happy home-makers" wanting to know all about the Wesson Oil Contest, in response to which many of you sent in recipes, using Wesson Oil Mayonnaise, made with the new Wesson Oil Mayonnaise Mixer, so I hasten to give you the names of the five winners of the handsome prizes.

First Prize—10 pints of Wesson Oil, and one Mayonnaise Mixer, won by Mrs. John Fairer, 306 St. Charles avenue, with the following recipe:

One medium-sized hen boiled and cut up in small pieces. Add one package (2 teaspoons) of gelatin to one cup of chicken stock. To this, add one pint of Wesson Oil Mayonnaise made with the new Wesson Oil Mayonnaise Mixer. Then add: Two cups chopped celery, 1 small can sifted peas, 1 small bottle of stuffed olive, 1 cup of chopped almonds, 2 tablespoons of chow-chow or any pickle; juice of one-half of a lemon, 3 hard-boiled eggs, finely chopped; chicken which has been cut up. Mold and serve on lettuce with Wesson Oil Mayonnaise made with the new Wesson Oil Mayonnaise Mixer.

Note: This is delicious for a summer bridge party and with the new Mayonnaise Mixer is not half the trouble to make as it was when making mayonnaise was an arduous task!

Second Prize—Eight pints Wesson Oil, and one Mayonnaise Mixer, won by Mrs. R. L. Chapman, Hapeville, Ga. Recipe follows:

Surprise Salad.
One package lemon gelatin, 2 cups canned pineapple juice, 1 cup shredded pineapple, 1 cup grated carrots, 1 orange, 1 head lettuce, 1 cup Wesson Oil Mayonnaise.

Beat pineapple juice and dissolve gelatin. When the mixture has cooled and hardened slightly, add shredded pineapple, grated carrots, orange pulp, and fill small molds for individual portions. Place on ice. When congealed serve on crisp lettuce with Wesson Oil Mayonnaise.

Third Prize—Six pints Wesson Oil, and one Mayonnaise Mixer, won by Mrs. F. C. Prow, 2426 Boulevard drive, N. E., recipe follows:

Jellied Vegetable Ring.
One and one-half tablespoons gelatin, 1-4 cupful cold water, 1-3 cupful boiling water, 3 tablespoons pure vinegar, 1-3 cupful sugar, 1 teaspoonful salt, 3-4 cupful diced celery, 1 cupful shredded cabbage, 1 cupful cooked peas, 2 tablespoonsful lemon juice.

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar, salt and vegetables, and mix thoroughly. Turn into a ring mold which has been dipped in cold water. Chill. Remove from mold to salad plate. Fill center with crisp lettuce and serve with fresh-made Wesson Oil Mayonnaise dressing. Thin slices of cooked meats may be arranged round the jelly ring.

Fourth Prize—Four pints Wesson Oil, and one Mayonnaise Mixer, won by Mrs. James T. Selman, 1622 North Decatur road, recipe follows:

Perfection Fruit Salad.
One envelope Knox's plain gelatin, 1-3 cup cold water, Dissolve in 1 cup of hot water and set aside to congeal. One cup whipped cream, 1-2 cup Wesson Oil Mayonnaise, 1-2 cup cottage cheese, seasoned to taste with salt or 2 packages Philadelphia cream cheese, 1 can (No. 2) Royal Anne cherries, 1 can (No. 2) crushed pineapple. When gelatin cools and begins to thicken, add the rest of the ingredients, first straining most of the juice from pineapple. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves. This amount fills 16 small individual molds.

Fifth Prize—Two pints Wesson Oil, and one Mayonnaise Mixer, won by Mrs. James R. Weithington, 680 Virginia avenue, recipe follows:

Dear Sally Saver: I am sending you my favorite chicken salad which I call "Bridge Club Jellied Chicken Salad." It is pleasing both to the eyes and to the palate:

Two tablespoons gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1-2 cup mayonnaise, 1-2 cup whipped cream, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 cups cooked chicken, minced; 1-3 cup celery, minced; 1-4 cup stuffed olives, minced very fine.

Dissolve gelatin in the water, then add mayonnaise fold in whipped cream and add other ingredients. Put in individual molds. When ready to serve turn mould out on slices of tomato in nests of lettuce. Garnish with halves of stuffed olives. Pass a dish of Wesson oil mayonnaise which is made from this recipe: One teaspoon each of salt, mustard, sugar and a little pepper, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 pint of Wesson oil.

The prizes listed above will be delivered to the winners by Massey & Fair, brokers in this territory for Wesson oil and Snowdrift.

And now for a few new recipes. Here are some that I have termed

ECONOMICAL TREATS.
There are many times nowadays when our meals are rather more frugal than we would like them to be. But if the meal ends with a palatable, pleasing piece of cake family frolics are chased away by smiles. Economical cake need not be "plain cake" with the unspezzing quality that phrase implies. Here are some one and two-slice cakes every one of which will have to go around twice. They are made with cake flour—flour specially milled to bring a cake out of the oven feathery light. They also call for combination baking powder, a double action leavening which is very efficient. So be sure to measure very exactly which quantity indicated in the recipes for too much baking powder in a cake will be quite as disastrous as not enough.

ONE-EGG CAKE.

Two cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 3-4 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Beat after each addition until smooth. Put layers together and cover top and sides of cake with chocolate frosting.

CARAMEL LAYER CAKE.

One and two-thirds cups sifted cake flour, 1-2 cups baking powder, 1-3 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1-2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg, then flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 minutes. Spread caramel frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

CARAMEL FROSTING.

One and one-half cups brown sugar, firmly packed, 1-2 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter.

Boil brown sugar, granulated sugar, and milk until syrup forms a soft ball in cold water (320 degrees Fahrenheit). Add butter and remove from fire. Cool to lukewarm; beat until thick and creamy and of right consistency to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 8-inch layers.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE.

One and one-fourth cups sifted cake flour, 1-4 cups baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 egg, well beaten, 1-2 cup milk, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 slices pineapple, 1 cup pecan meats.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg, then flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Melt 1 tablespoon butter in 8-inch iron skillet. Add brown sugar. Stir until melted. On this arrange pineapple and nuts. Pour batter over contents of skillet. Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) 40 minutes. Loosen cake from sides and bottom. Serve upside down.

COFFEE SPICE CAKE.

Two and one-third cups cake flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon allspice, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 1-4 cups brown sugar, firmly packed, 2 eggs, well beaten, 2-3 cup cold strong coffee.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda, spices and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add coffee alternately with flour, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in two deep, greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes. Cool. Spread mocha frosting between layers and on top.

MOCHA FROSTING.

Three tablespoons butter, 2 cups confectioners' sugar, dash of salt, 2 tablespoons strong coffee (about). Cream butter, add sugar and salt gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add coffee slowly until of consistency to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover top of one 8x8-inch cake, or tops of two 9-inch layers.

I want all of you to be on the lookout for my fourth semi-annual cook book, which will be published in The Constitution July 15. I promise you it will be one of the nicest I have ever gotten up. You will find all recipes classified and even illustrated. How would you like to have a special one of these autographs? All you need do is drop me a postcard or note and I shall be only too glad to autograph one of these and send it to you. All right, girls, the line forms to the right.

Milk Rises.

MIAMI, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—Increased milk prices, set by the state milk control board, went into effect in Miami today. Sweet milk at retail was quoted at 13 cents a quart, against prices yesterday that ranged from five to eight cents a quart.

Farmer's Plow Disrupts Air Meet; Post-Race Schedule Is Abandoned

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT. LOS ANGELES, July 6.—(AP)—After repeated attempts to complete races against time in two straightaway dashes had failed, contestants and officials of the national air races today decided to end the post-race schedule, drawn up after completion of the regular events July 4, and make awards on previous performances.

Poor visibility, a rancher who plowed up timing wires and inability of contestants and officials to get together at an appointed hour combined to bring about the decision.

As a result, the race for women over a three-kilometer straightaway course was called off, and a tentative agreement was reached to make the awards of $1,500 prize money for this event on the basis of results in the principal closed course race for women, a 50-mile contest run July 4.

Under this agreement, Mrs. Mae Hazlip, of St. Louis, holder of the women's speed record of 252 miles per hour, would be given first place in the straightaway time race and a prize of $675. Mrs. Martie Rowman, of Los Angeles, who finished second to Mrs. Hazlip, in the 50-mile closed course race, also would be ranked second in the straightaway and be given a $375 prize. Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Cal., as third-place winner, would receive $225, and Miss Henrietta Sumner, of Los Angeles, who finished in fourth and last place, would get $150.

The officials did succeed, however, in timing two of the men in the straightaway race for male pilots, before a rancher, plowing up his bean field, took up a mile of timing wires and summarily ended all further efforts in this direction for the day.

Jimmie Wedell, of New Orleans, and Lee Gehlbach, of Detroit, fighting for second and third places in the $2,500 purse, flew up and down the 3-kilometer course, Wedell averaging about 278 miles per hour and Gehlbach around 260. Colonel Roscoe Turner won the event with a speed of 280 miles per hour.

Although the contest committee had not made a final announcement, it was indicated Turner would win first prize of $1,125. Of the other contestants Wedell would receive $695; Gehlbach, $375; Roy Minor, of Los Angeles, $250, and Ray Moore, of Oakland, Cal., $125.

Allied Chemical, Exchange Settle Row

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The New York Stock Exchange and the Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation announced approval today by the exchange's governing committee and the company's directors of an agreement over the alleged inadequacy of the Allied Chemical & Dye financial statements.

The agreement previously had been reached between Orlando F. Weber, corporation president, and the exchange's committee on stock list. The corporation's annual reports under the agreement will show that the property account and marketable securities are carried at cost. The basis used in determining the value of inventories will be indicated and the market value of investments in government and stock and curb exchange securities will be shown.

OUTBREAK IN PRISON QUELLED BY POLICE

FORTON, Va., July 6.—(AP)—A tense situation among the 2,700 prisoners in the District of Columbia reformatory here, which authorities feared might result in an outbreak, late tonight appeared to have been quieted at least temporarily.

Three dozen policemen from the national capital, heavily armed with riot equipment, including tear gas guns, were rushed here by motorcycle and automobile earlier in the evening, when officials believed a riot was imminent.

YOUR OWN HOME MADE MAYONNAISE

tastes the way you want it to taste

Some folks like a sweet mayonnaise . . . and some don't want any sugar at all. Some like mustard, and some can't stand it. And lots of people like the taste and healthfulness of fresh lemon juice while others want vinegar. There's only one way to have mayonnaise that is not sweet at all, or that is extra sweet . . . only one way to have mayonnaise that is made with lemon juice instead of vinegar . . . and that way is to make it yourself. Home made mayonnaise is simply choice Wesson Oil, an egg just out of the shell, and seasoning exactly as you like it.

HERE'S THE NEW MIXER THAT WHIPS IT UP IN 1 1/2 MINUTES! PERFECT MAYONNAISE EVERY TIME!

It works with one hand while you pour with the other . . . whips up a perfect mayonnaise in 1 1/2 minutes . . . the time required for the pint of Wesson Oil to pour out of the can. When the can is empty, six more strokes and your mayonnaise is finished. It can't fail.

Texas Raps Critics of Awards to Duce and King of Italy.

ROME, July 6.—(AP)—Colonel W. E. Eastwood Jr., of Dallas, Texas, said tonight that he will carry the question of his right to confer honorary memberships in the American Legion on King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini to the floor of the national convention in Chicago in October if necessary.

"They both are veterans of a country allied with us in the World War and they have a right to wear the buttons of American Legion buttons," he declared. "If there is any responsibility in the presentation, let it rest on my shoulders."

"Premier Mussolini asked for the pin I wore on my hat and I pinned it on his lapel. I offered the King the one I had on my coat and pinned it in his lapel. He said he was very proud to wear it."

NATIONAL ADJUTANT SCORES TEXAN'S ACTION
INDIANAPOLIS, July 6.—(AP)—Frank E. Samuel, national adjutant of the American Legion, described as "absurd" the declaration in Rome of Colonel W. E. Eastwood Jr. that he would bring before the Legion national convention next October the question of his right to confer honorary memberships in the veterans organization.

The national adjutant during the day wrote Colonel Eastwood, who is one of the five vice commanders of the Legion, asking him to make it clear to Premier Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, both recipients of honorary memberships bestowed by Colonel Eastwood, that the Legion constitution does not provide for such memberships.

SHARP EARTH TREMOR IS FELT AT LONG BEACH
LONG BEACH, Cal., July 6.—(AP)—A sharp earth tremor was felt by residents here last night. It lasted a second and gave the impression of a powerful upward lift without lateral motion. No damage was reported.

CHUCKWALLA DIET
PUZZLING OWNER,
SAND FLEAS BARRED
BOSTON, July 6.—(AP)—If anybody knows anything about the care and feeding of chuckwallas, William J. O'Brien, director of the Boston aquarium, would like to know about it.

A chuckwalla is a moderate-sized lizard, weighing maybe seven ounces, with a tail about eight inches long. It has a bluish green, verging on brown, color.

Harvard University's zoology department recently presented the aquarium with five of them.

"I got them worms, cockroaches and ants," says Director O'Brien. "I gave them lettuce. I tried blueberries. I even sliced up bananas. Then they stuck out their tongues. I couldn't tell whether they were licking the bananas or simply making faces at them."

One disquieting thought has occurred to Director O'Brien. "These things," he said, "come from a hot country down in the southwest. And I'm afraid what they really want is sand fleas."

Director O'Brien is firm on one point. He does not intend to begin chasing sand fleas.

FARMERS ARE WARNED AGAINST FEE RACKET
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Farmers were warned today against employing experts to draw up their contracts in the acreage reduction campaign under which farmers will be paid benefits for agreements to reduce acreage in 1934 and 1935.

Chester C. Davis, director of crop production, said reports had come to him from a wheat state that individuals posing as experts had offered to "make out the papers" for farmers who intended to sign agreements for 10 per cent of the cash payments the farmers would receive.

Girl's Paint Appetite Puzzles Physicians

KINGSTON, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—A two-year-old girl, whose name is kept a secret by puzzled physicians, in a hospital because of an unusual appetite for anything painted.

Physicians said the child prefers linoleum, legs of tables, and wood-work generally.

She was brought to the hospital suffering from lead poisoning. Attendants said at first she refused all normal food, and chewed off the leg of a painted doll.

Physicians asserted the child's trouble was traced partially to "pica," or an abnormal appetite. They expect her ultimately to acquire a taste for an ordinary diet.

VALLEY AUTHORITY TRIO MEET IN KNOXVILLE
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority, which has charge of carrying out President Roosevelt's plan for developing the Tennessee basin, met here today for the first time to make preliminary studies of the Cove Creek dam project, part of the huge development.

Dr. A. E. Morgan, chairman, and Dr. H. A. Morgan, of Knoxville, visited the dam region, 20 miles north of here, yesterday. They were joined today by David E. Lilienthal, third member of the Authority.

Two Boys Kidnaped From Porch of Home
PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(AP)—Two small brothers were taken from the porch of a summer bungalow in suburban Parkland today by two men in a motor car.

The boys, "Buster" and Jack Donus, 10 and 8 years old, respectively, were talking on the porch with two girl cousins when the car drove up.

The girls, so frightened they were unable to give authorities any description of the car or its occupants, said the men clapped hands over the boys' mouths, dragged them into the automobile and sped off in the direction of Philadelphia.

After the car sped off the girls ran to a grocery store and the proprietor telephoned to the Langhorne barracks of the state highway patrol. Police broadcast an alarm to this city, Trenton, N. J., and other nearby communities.

RECEIVERS OF S. A. L.
TO PAY OFF CLAIMS
NORFOLK, Va., July 6.—(AP)—Federal Judge Luther B. Way today authorized receivers of the Seaboard Air Line railroad to pay priority claims to certain creditors in an amount not to exceed $1,365,000.

Under plans advanced by Legh R. Powell and Colonel Henry W. Anderson, receivers, practically this amount is to be paid soon to the creditors.

Application for the authority to pay the claims was filed in May and the receivers reported that, as of that date, they had more than $7,000,000 on deposit in various banks but needed to retain certain amounts for operating expenses, cash reserves and other needs.

Boyd Lands in Capital
After Savannah Stop
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Captain Boyd, Canadian flyer piloting the veteran trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia, landed at 5:02 at Washington-Hoover airport after a one-stop flight from Port Au Prince, Haiti.

Captain Boyd intended making the 2,000-mile trip non-stop, but was forced to land late this morning at Savannah, Ga. After refueling he continued to Washington, bucking headwinds most of the way.

SHOALS JOB SEEKERS GIVEN LITTLE HOPE

Twenty Thousand Applications Already on File, It Is Announced.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—With 20,000 applications for work already on file, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today that "no extra help is wanted at Muscle Shoals at present."

"Being primarily concerned with the economic and social life of the Tennessee river basin," the announcement said, "it is the policy of the Tennessee Valley Authority to give jobs to the unemployed of that area in so far as possible."

The announcement said in taking over war department pay rolls at Muscle Shoals the Authority is absorbing between 400 and 600 government workers.

"As yet the opportunities for taking on additional help, even in the area of activity, are indefinite," it said. "In all instances, however, employment will be local and gradual as the work develops."

CHUCKWALLA DIET
PUZZLING OWNER,
SAND FLEAS BARRED
BOSTON, July 6.—(AP)—If anybody knows anything about the care and feeding of chuckwallas, William J. O'Brien, director of the Boston aquarium, would like to know about it.

A chuckwalla is a moderate-sized lizard, weighing maybe seven ounces, with a tail about eight inches long. It has a bluish green, verging on brown, color.

Harvard University's zoology department recently presented the aquarium with five of them.

"I got them worms, cockroaches and ants," says Director O'Brien. "I gave them lettuce. I tried blueberries. I even sliced up bananas. Then they stuck out their tongues. I couldn't tell whether they were licking the bananas or simply making faces at them."

One disquieting thought has occurred to Director O'Brien. "These things," he said, "come from a hot country down in the southwest. And I'm afraid what they really want is sand fleas."

Director O'Brien is firm on one point. He does not intend to begin chasing sand fleas.

FARMERS ARE WARNED AGAINST FEE RACKET
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Farmers were warned today against employing experts to draw up their contracts in the acreage reduction campaign under which farmers will be paid benefits for agreements to reduce acreage in 1934 and 1935.

Chester C. Davis, director of crop production, said reports had come to him from a wheat state that individuals posing as experts had offered to "make out the papers" for farmers who intended to sign agreements for 10 per cent of the cash payments the farmers would receive.

RECEIVERS OF S. A. L.
TO PAY OFF CLAIMS
NORFOLK, Va., July 6.—(AP)—Federal Judge Luther B. Way today authorized receivers of the Seaboard Air Line railroad to pay priority claims to certain creditors in an amount not to exceed $1,365,000.

Under plans advanced by Legh R. Powell and Colonel Henry W. Anderson, receivers, practically this amount is to be paid soon to the creditors.

Application for the authority to pay the claims was filed in May and the receivers reported that, as of that date, they had more than $7,000,000 on deposit in various banks but needed to retain certain amounts for operating expenses, cash reserves and other needs.

On the Air Today
Goldy and Dusty, harmonizers and comedians, have unearthed a few more old minstrel melodies for their program to be heard over the WABC-Columbia chain at 7:15 o'clock this morning. Their musical selections will include "Hats Off to Me," "My Evening Song" and "That Cincinnati Ham."

Dave Grant, Gordon Graham and Bunny Coughlin will arise early in order to "Say It With Music," one of the most attractive melodies that emerged from the "Music Box Revue," during their program at 8 o'clock this morning over the WABC-Columbia network. They will continue their musical vocal exercises with "Take Your Time," "Raggin' the Scale" and "Thanksgiving."

Two charming songs and another Puccini aria, rarely heard on the air, will be sung by Grace Moore during the variety show in which she will be featured with Lou Holtz and Lennie Hayton's orchestra over the WABC-Columbia network at 8 o'clock tonight. The musical numbers will be interspersed with the amusing comedy sketches of Lou Holtz and his imitable "stooge" Benny (Shaworsky) Baker.

Evan Evans' baritone interpretation of Charles' fantastic song, "The Green-eyed Dragon," and Mary Eastman's soprano version of Woolf's lyric composition, "Iris," will be featured of the program Andre Kostelanetz presents at 7:30 o'clock tonight over WABC and the Columbia network.

"Through the Years," the title song of Vincent Youman's tuneful musical comedy, will be featured by Nino Martini when he presents a program of light concert selections over WABC and the Columbia network at 6 o'clock tonight. The young Metropolitan opera tenor will be accompanied by Howard Barlow and the Columbia Symphony orchestra.

The Southern Seas orchestra, popular at local dances, will make its radio debut at 11 o'clock tonight over WGST, with Mack Chotas as leader.

ARMS TALK DELAY DECIDED ON BY U. S.

Washington Gives Up
Hope of Accomplishing
Anything Before Fall.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The administration today abandoned all plans for informal arms reduction negotiations until autumn, convinced that nothing could be done in the meanwhile to reconcile the prevailing and persisting disagreements on this vexing question.

This was disclosed by an announcement that Ambassador Norman H.

Davis, chief delegate to the Geneva conference, would remain in the United States until early September, when the assembly of the League of Nations will meet.

As plans now stand, the informal discussions will be resumed then with the objective of negotiating agreements on points of difference which arose during the first reading of the British draft treaty and of preparing for an amicable second reading when the conference reconvenes in mid-October.

Accompanied by Allan W. Dulles, an advisor to the arms delegation, Davis journeyed to Washington today to consult President Roosevelt for a second time and to confer, too, with Acting Secretary Phillips at the state department. The ambassador visited Mr. Roosevelt on board the Amberjack II nearly a fortnight ago.

The announcement of Davis' plans immediately revived the speculation which followed disclosure that his name was on several J. P. Morgan & Co. preferred customer lists. Both Davis and the state department have repeatedly denied that he intends to resign and today it was asserted emphatically that he would return to Geneva.

Whether incidentally or by design, the revamped plans call for a resumption of the arms discussion a full month or more after the coming war debt revision negotiations have begun, creating an opportunity for bargaining in the two fields. Such a course has been advocated by a congressional group headed by Senator Borah, of Idaho, the ranking republican of the senate foreign relations committee.

ROOSEVELT SAVES LONDON MEETING

tries with depreciated currencies, were definitely off the slate for possible discussion, at least until such time as the dollar and pound are stabilized.

A French spokesman asserted "the conference is effectively dead" and expressed the view that little would be left to do after next Monday or Tuesday.

Some Dutch and Swiss delegations began packing their bags and a few prepared to leave tonight and tomorrow.

A session of the steering committee was held in the morning lasting three hours and a half during which the debate was understood to have been bitter. Unable to arrive at a decision, the conference adjourned for lunch.

Meanwhile a drafting committee comprised of Hull, M. Bonnet, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, president of the parley, Guido Jung, Italian finance minister, Hendryk Collin, Dutch premier, and Premier Bennett, was engaged with the task of drawing up a proposed agenda for future work.

Work Incomplete.

Reassembling at the scheduled time, the steering committee found that this group had not completed its work. Accordingly it recessed for two hours.

The second session of the committee was brief. Soon an official communique was issued which read:

"Whereas, the bureau (steering committee) is firmly determined to proceed with the work of the conference to the utmost possible extent and as rapidly as possible, and whereas, on account of circumstances which have recently arisen countries on the gold standard find themselves obliged to declare that for the time being it is impossible for them to take part in any monetary discussions,

"The bureau agrees unanimously to: A.—A request that each sub-committee meet as soon as possible to draw up a list of questions which in these circumstances are usefully studied by it. B.—To meet as soon as the reports of the sub-committee have been received in order to make recommendations as to arrangements which should be made for the future business of the conference."

Agenda Restricted.

Thus the agenda of the conference was somewhat restricted from the broad plan drawn up prior to assembly here June 12.

Marked divergencies of viewpoint existed even among the American delegates as to whether the conference could effectively continue, crippled as it appeared to be. Some said privately they would have favored a recess as they voted in yesterday's meeting of the delegation to acquiesce to such a move.

Mr. Hull failed to vote in that meeting and James M. Cox, of Ohio, did not attend.

In addition to the support of Prime Minister Bennett and Mr. Chamberlain, a number of smaller countries outside the steering committee joined in supporting continuation of the assembly. These included Japan, Sweden, Mexico and China.

It was further explained that the belief prevailed that should an adjournment, or recess, proposal have reached a plenary session the small states not represented on the steering committee, but with an equal vote

ATLANTA'S CLAIM TO WENDEL ESTATE AGAIN IS DENIED

Charging that the claims of Mrs. Rebecca Dew Cooper, of Atlanta, and five other southern women to a part of the Wendel estate were "persistent and unwarranted," and in his opinion "are spurious," Surrogate James Foley, of New York, Thursday instructed counsel for the Wendel estate to submit to the Bar Association Grievance Committee the record for "appropriate action."

The claims of the women that they are relatives of the late Elie E. Wendel through her uncle, John Hammond Dew, have been dismissed three times by Surrogate Foley, the last on June 27. Mrs. Cooper and Misses Hattie, Mattie and Margaret Dew, of Columbia, Tenn., and Mrs. Addie Dew May and Mrs. May Dew Ambrose, of Nashville, have had the case reopened upon their petition that they have discovered new documentary evidence to corroborate their contention.

The documents, written in pencil, were said by Foley "to have been recently fabricated to supply a grave defect of proof" in their relationship with the wealthy New York woman who left an estate valued somewhere between $40,000,000 and $100,000,000.

There, would have rejected such a move.

May Overrule.

It also was explained that the steering committee on Monday might overrule any reports as to procedure which might be brought in by the sub-committee.

One of the most important victories of the day was for President Roosevelt's tariff trust, which would have expired had the conference adjourned.

This was explained in important conference quarters as a vital factor in the stand taken by some gold group members who wished to be relieved from their commitment to the trust so as to be free to raise tariffs should the dollar depreciate further.

Some conference circles were optimistic that the world convulse would not be so hampered as might first appear, for should the countries outside the gold bloc begin to consider monetary affairs among themselves, the gold group might well be forced to take part for self-protection.

CUMMINGS ORDERS ARREST OF FLOYD

"Pretty Boy" and Others Accused in Connection With Nash Killing.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The immediate arrest of six persons on a charge of complicity in the slaying of a department of justice investigator and three officials at Kansas City on June 17, was ordered today by the department of justice.

This was made known today by Attorney General Cummings, who told newspapermen orders would be issued later for the arrest of three others.

Cummings said the six which included Charles Arthur Floyd, alias "Pretty Boy" Floyd had been identified by one or more persons as having participated in the massacre.

The department of justice special agent, Raymond J. Caffrey, and four others were killed at the Kansas City railway station.

Others whose arrest already has been ordered were Robert G. Brady, alias J. H. Taylor; Harvey J. Bailey, alias J. J. Brennan; Ed Davis, alias Keith Stone; James Clark, alias Jack Martin; and Wilbur Underhill, alias Henry Wilbur.

Cummings said information was in the possession of the department that the other three participated in a conspiracy to murder "if they did not take actual part."

Harry J. Garner, alias Harry A. Garner; Vernon C. Miller, and Bernard Phillips.

Cummings said most of them, if not all, had criminal records.

HUNT FOR FLOYD CENTERS NEAR SCENE OF KILLINGS

KANSAS CITY, July 6.—(AP)—Chief of Police Roy F. Floyd, Oklahoma desperado, five convicts who escaped from the Kansas penitentiary Memorial Day, Verne C. Miller, a former Kansas, S. D., sheriff and William Weissman, a Kansas City gangster, are sought in connection with the machine gun slaying of four officers at their prisoner, Frank Nash, at the Union station plaza here June 17.

Six circulars, issued by the United States bureau of investigation in Washington, were placed in the hands of Sheriff Thomas B. Bash today. They called for the arrest of Floyd, Wilbur Underhill, Harvey J. Bailey, Ed Davis, James Clark and Robert G. Brady.

Before the appearance of the circular police had announced they were seeking Miller and Weissman as actual participants in the killings.

Underhill, an escaped Oklahoma convict, is the slayer of a Wichita policeman, Merle Colver, Bailey, identified through a photograph as having been at the Union station the morning of the slaying, was a friend of Fred Burdett, described as "America's most dangerous criminal."

Bailey has been identified as the leader of the gang which "killed a Lincoln, Neb., bank of about $2,000,000 several years ago."

Police said their investigation has established that at least two machine guns were used by the gangsters, one of them operated by Miller.

WAR DEBT PAYMENT IN WINES, WHISKY SUGGESTED BY M. P.

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—Laughter today greeted the suggestion of a Scotch member of the house of commons that a large part of Europe's debt to America might be liquidated by payments in kind, namely shipments of wine and whisky.

F. A. MacQuisten started things by asking if Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, had considered the possibility of Great Britain and France offering to liquidate the debts to America by the delivery of commodities which the latter do not themselves possess but which are in great demand in the United States.

After Major Leslie Hore-Belisha, financial secretary for the treasury, speaking for Mr. Chamberlain, had soberly replied that the chancellor would take note of the suggestion, MacQuisten persisted. He asked if it was not notorious that "there is in France an immense stock of wine and in Scotland an immense stock of Scotch whisky" that could advantageously be passed over to the United States and "that we could liquidate a lot of our debts in that way."

The remark drew laughter which was renewed when Major Hore-Belisha replied: "I now understand what the member means by 'liquidation of debts.'"

ROUTED GRAND JURY AGAIN IN SESSION

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—(AP)—The Orleans parish grand jury, which was routed from its quarters in the criminal court building yesterday by deputy sheriffs, reconvened in the jury room today with 10 of its 12 members present. Foreman J. S. Waterman declined to discuss the new sitting.

The session was called by Waterman and assembled without interference after officers of the criminal courts had removed from the jury room more than 500 ballot boxes used in last November's general election here. Removal was at the request of a group of citizens who asked for preservation of the ballots.

The boxes were taken into the jury room last week in connection with the jury's lengthy investigation into alleged frauds in the ballot count on constitutional amendments ratified in the election.

REBELLION IS ENDED IN FLORIDA PRISON

BROOKSVILLE, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—A two-day mutiny of convicts at Tooke Lake prison camp, near here, ended today when the men surrendered peacefully to militiamen and civil guards.

Surrounded by guardsmen and deputies, with machine guns pointed on their hairlocks, the convicts came out one by one as their names were called.

Eighteen men, designated as the leaders, were looked into a waiting prison van and taken to Raiford state penitentiary, where officials said they likely will be placed in solitary confinement for their deed.

Orphan To Take Place Of Her Who Drowned

PATERSON, N. J., July 6.—(AP)—A home with a wealthy silk drier and such advantages as a college education are in store for a 13-year-old orphan boy from Omaha, Neb.

The boy is Peter Christopoulos, an inmate of Father Flanagan's boys' home near Omaha. Mr. and Mrs. Jean Streng, who live here, saw the picture of Peter and were struck by the resemblance to their son, Henry, who drowned in Green Pond, N. J., a little over a year ago.

As a result, arrangements were made to bring Peter into the Streng household to take the place of the dead boy.

that owners cannot meet the levies, we can collect no money; if, on the other hand, we attempt to be reasonable and fair, a position which we have taken and will continue to pursue, taxpayers will meet their obligations and the city's revenue will be forthcoming."

Cuba's statement followed the veto by Mayor James L. Key of a council resolution anticipating an additional $115,704.28 from ad valorem taxes for 1933 to reimburse 5 per cent of the salary slashes imposed on municipal employees.

In vetoing the measure, the mayor cited his desire to refund the cut, but pointed to the depleted condition of the municipal treasury and the apparent inability of the city to collect anticipated taxes.

"I would be glad to approve the resolution if there were any sound reason," the mayor said.

"I have been advised by the tax assessors, however, that there are no facts on which an increase could be anticipated on the property tax of 1933. The utmost that can be hoped for is to hold up the assessment of $325,000,000, on which present anticipations are based."

If there is any difference, it will be in a reduction, he said.

"To increase the anticipation is to reach out into thin air for money which is not there," he said.

Declarator Cuts 25 Per Cent.

Scott Candler, mayor of Declarator, said that the Declarator city commission has cut assessments 25 per cent within three years. The assessments were reduced 5 per cent in 1931, 10 per cent in 1932 and another 10 per cent at the beginning of this year.

Mayor Candler said. The Declarator city rate is 15 mills.

U. S. A. Matthews, DeKalb county commissioner, said that he has cut the DeKalb rate 3 1/2 mills from the former rate of 17 1/2 mills in two years, but that it is too early this year to tell what he will be able to do in the line of further reductions.

He cannot determine the rate until he sees the 1933 digest. Commissioner Matthews said. Homer H. Howard, DeKalb tax commissioner, said that county assessments were cut 10 per cent during the previous two years and are being cut almost 8 per cent this year.

George F. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county commission, said that the 1933 budget of the county board includes a reduction of at least 15 per cent in assessments, but that the board will not be able to determine whether the county government can order a reduction in the tax rate until the digest is gone over in September.

Collection of a large amount of unpaid back taxes carried on the state's books, as well as current taxes, if business continues on the upswing, may place the state in better financial condition, State Auditor Tom Wisdom said Thursday in connection with a report showing that the general property tax for the first half of 1933 netted the state $1,375,000, as compared with $2,104,000 for the same period of last year.

Although the one-mill reduction in the state ad valorem levy, announced Wednesday by Governor Talmadge, will cut the state's anticipated revenue by $1,000,000 for this year, the governor will be able to function if the considerable amount of unpaid taxes due comes in under better business conditions, Wisdom said.

May Stimulate Collections.

Taxing authorities indicated that Governor Talmadge's move may stimulate the payment of past due as well as current taxes, and that collections may pick up under the encouragement thus given to the taxpayers.

Figures of taxing officers Thursday showed that Atlantans will save approximately 1-3/4th of their 1933 tax bill and residents of unincorporated areas of Fulton county will save 1-23d under the reduction ordered by the governor.

If the tax collections increase as expected under the stimulus of the "new deal," a 10 per cent cut in the state budget to take care of the ad valorem reduction probably will not be necessary, it was said.

The total levy on the Atlanta taxpayer has been 15 mills for the city, 11 mills for Fulton county, and five mills for the state, a total of 31 mills. The state and county levy is figured on 70 per cent of the valuation fixed by city assessors, the net levy totaling 26.2 mills on the city's valuation, and the reduced levy totaling 25.3 mills.

Fulton county taxpayers, outside of city limits, have paid 5 mills to the state, 11 to the county and 7.5 mills to the city.

Factor Still Missing As New Clues Fail

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—The expected return of John Factor, kidnaped market plunger, failed to materialize tonight and new mystery was added to his now six-day-old absence.

At the Morrison hotel where a board of strategy held forth hoping to negotiate for his release an anonymous telephone call came in saying: "Factor's already on the high seas."

Leon Bleet, personal representative for Factor, regarded the call as a hoax.

John J. Grosch, New Orleans detective chief, had detectives watching all incoming highways into the city for a large sedan. Grosch refused to divulge source of his information but said Factor's abductors were reported headed for New Orleans.

Lindbergh 'Plotters' Released by Court

ROANOKE, Va., July 6.—(AP)—Without going into a preliminary hearing in United States court here this afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Norman Harvey and Joe Bryant, arrested here several months ago in connection with a plot to extort $50,000 from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, were dismissed.

The Harveys and Bryant were to be given a preliminary hearing at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. When court convened, lawyers went into a conference, and then came the announcement that the charges against the defendants had been dropped.

While no explanation was forthcoming as to why the matter was abandoned, the government's case because of insufficient evidence.

on a special school tax, a total of 23.5 mills. The governor's action reduces this to 22.5 mills.

The average saving per taxpayer over the state is $1.66 under the reduction.

Auditor Wisdom reported to the governor that ad valorem collections for the first six months of this year are $700,000 less than for the same period of 1932, and $1,200,000 less than for the same period of 1931.

right out of your mouth

"Luckies Please!" You, our personal friends, have been saying it for years. And because it so aptly sums up the Lucky Strike story, we've taken the words right out of your mouth. "Luckies Please!" of course. They please in the quality of their fine tobaccos. They please in the mildness and purity of "Toasting". They please the taste. They please the throat. In every way and always, "Luckies Please!" May we thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Smoker, for giving us this phrase?

RATIFICATION SEEN OF MILK AGREEMENT

Bridges Warns Against Efforts To Break Dealers-Producers Pact.

Denying reports that the department of agriculture will not ratify the milk agreement entered into between dealers and producers in the Atlanta area, and asserting the belief that a ratification will be forthcoming by Saturday, Fred T. Bridges, handling the milk campaign for the state, and who is connected with G. C. Adams, commissioner of agriculture, Thursday warned against efforts to break the agreement.

The statement, issued by Bridges, warns all interested parties that any contract entered into at a price below the schedule set up in the agreement is void and without effect, and that anyone violating the law will be subject to penalties fixed by the law.

"The department of agriculture does not at this time propose to have someone who may be unscrupulous to go out and try to break the market after the price has been raised to the farmer and any violations to this effect will be immediately reported to the authorities in Washington," Bridges said.

"There has been a feeling of optimism among the dairymen and other interested parties in the Atlanta area since the agreement was put into effect on June 21. The experience under the mutual agreement up to this time has not only been profitable but has in a large measure been carried out to the complete satisfaction of those who have made themselves a party thereto."

100,000 Persons Visit Funeral of Yrigoyen

BUENOS AIRES, July 6.—(AP)—More than 100,000 persons from all parts of Argentina marched today in the funeral procession for former President Hipolito Yrigoyen, idolized leader of the masses, who died last Monday night.

Ten persons were injured, one seriously, when the crowd struggled to get into the cemetery. The coffin bearers were knocked down and the coffin tumbled to the ground and was slightly damaged.

Four army regiments and a naval battalion paid honors at the grave in Recoleta cemetery, under government orders issued as "a duty to established custom."

YOUTH, HURT IN FIGHT, IDENTIFIED AT GRADY

Injured Wednesday night in a fight following an automobile collision, Preston Sargent, 19, of College Park, was identified Thursday at Grady hospital by relatives and friends. The youth had lain unconscious for more than 12 hours.

H. C. Graham, 51, of an Everhart street address, driver of the car which collided with the one driven by Sargent, at Stewart avenue and Parkers road, was released Thursday under $1,000 bond, charged with assault with intent to murder, it was said. Police declared he struck Sargent with a crank handle.

County police said the car driven by Sargent was reported stolen Wednesday night from J. F. Hinman, of Fairburn, from its parking place in front of the Fairfax theater. No charges have been made against Sargent, pending an investigation and the outcome of his injuries. Hospital attendants said he received a probable fracture of the skull.

CONTRACTOR EXPLAINS PART IN ROAD SUIT

E. M. Beckham, of the Beckham-Lawler Construction Company, of Perry, who joined in filing an independent suit to enjoin Governor Eugene Talmadge from taking over the state highway department through force of the state militia, Thursday issued a statement explaining his action.

He pointed out that he has a contract with the state highway department, and while not taking the side of the governor or the board in the matter, he asserted he feels he must know who is in control. He further cited the "chaotic" condition of the department saying he feels it his duty as a citizen to end the stagnation of the department if possible. In addition, he said he feels the state may lose $10,000,000 of federal funds unless the row is settled.

FLORIDA TO PROSECUTE BEER "BOOTLEGGERS"

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—The governor, director of the state beverage department, is going after those fellows who have been bootlegging beer in Florida since the 32 brew became legal.

Already more than 200,000 bottles of beer, on which no state tax has been paid, have been seized by inspectors, Cormier said, and a concerted drive on beer tax dodgers will be planned at a meeting of all beverage tax inspectors at Orlando next week.

Up to July 1 collections from manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers licenses amounted to $74,785.

Growing Menace of Accidents Makes Insurance a Necessity

Although it is a generally accepted fact that a man who takes chances generally loses, most people persist in the practice. Chances are that you yourself are a gambler in one sense of the word.

You know of the growing menace of the traffic accident wave. You read in the daily papers of death and suffering in its wake. You possibly read in every Monday's issue of The Atlanta Constitution accidents in Georgia that show a fatality of from 10 to 15 people, sometimes 10 to 15 and 25 throughout the south.

You know that the peril hangs over your head as well as that of every man and woman everywhere. Then what have you done to protect your own income against abrupt halt and to safeguard the security of your family?

Are you insured against the great common danger?

The insurance offered you through The Atlanta Constitution Insurance Company, of Chicago, Ill. This company, during the last several years, has paid to Constitution subscribers and members of their families over $160,000.

The insurance is offered to subscribers and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 65 on the one subscription going into the home at the small registration fee of 20 cents with application and 10 cents per month thereafter in addition to the subscription price, or $1 each per policy per year in advance, to subscribers who live in Atlanta, and to subscribers outside Atlanta and suburbs the rate is $1 per year per policy in addition to the subscription price.

The policy The Constitution offers you provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $10,000 for travel, $1,000 for auto and pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specific accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from accidents set forth in the policy, which is at the rate of $43.33 per month. All this for the small fee, as stated above—just 21.2 cents a week, and it is offered to old and new subscribers alike.

In sending application for insurance, the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation, and if beneficiary is desired the full Christian name of beneficiary must be given and relationship to the insured.

F. D. R.'S RECOVERY ACT LAUDED AT INSTITUTE

U. S. C. of C. Official Says Experiment Is Boldest Undertaken by President.

UNIVERSITY, Va., July 6.—(AP)—Chester Leasure, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, today told the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs the legislation involved in the industrial recovery act is a great experiment in real democracy.

"From the viewpoint of traditional American policy this industrial recovery act as conceived by President Roosevelt is the boldest of a series of bold experiments frankly and fearlessly undertaken to check the downward spiral of depression which for three years has been engulfing our people in a veritable maelstrom of ruin," Mr. Leasure asserted.

"This act is an heroic effort not only to check the downward course of the economic needle but to start it definitely upward. On closer examination this measure loses much of its revolutionary character when it is discovered that its purpose is to call into play and give definite direction to the traditional American spirit and genius for unified action."

The disaster of depression, with panic running riot, caused principles of conduct, voluntarily adopted by the majority of business, to be thrown overboard because they lacked the hitting teeth of law, the speaker continued.

"Upon this darkened stage came the industrial recovery act of 1933. Stripped of all legal verbiage and stated in everyday parlance this act gives businessmen, who are the choreworkers of business recovery, the right to effect agreements in relation to minimum wages and maximum working hours and production to the degree in which production cost is a factor in ultimate prices."

New Mary Magdalene To Wed Son of 'Christus'

LANCASTER, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—The son of the Christus in the Oberammergau passion play is soon to marry the Mary Magdalene—a daughter of the Judas in the celebrated production.

Mrs. Darmstaetter, who entertained the passion players on their visit to America, today announced receipt of a letter announcing the wedding will be in October.

Miss Clara Mayr, Magdalene in this year's play, is the daughter of Guido Mayr, famed Judas. She will wed Dr. Anton Lang Jr., son of the Christus of the passion play. The ceremony cannot take place until after the passion play closes this year's season, according to custom.

Ottley, Exhausted From Ordeal, Greeted by Friends at Home

After aiding in the search for one of the men who kidnapped him Thursday, John K. Ottley Sr., returned to his home, Joyeuse, at 3415 Peachtree road, where Mrs. George McCarty, his daughter, and other relatives and friends met him.

John K. Ottley Jr., who flew by special plane from Sea Island to join in the search at Suwanee, accompanied his father, together with officers. Mr. Ottley went to bed immediately upon his arrival, completely exhausted from the ordeal but harmed in no way. Mrs. McCarty said her father was all right except that he was "very tired."

Both the homes of Mr. Ottley and his son, who resides at 705 Penn avenue, were under guard by city detectives Thursday night. Four officers received special orders to guard the residences early Thursday night and were to be relieved at midnight by four others. The guard will be kept up today also, it was said.

OTTLEY IS SAFE AFTER KIDNAPING

eyes and the cords that bound his ankles and the two began a walk to Suwanee.

Atlanta officers under Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant rushed to Suwanee and organized an intensive search for the missing kidnaper. Reports that a man tallying with the description of the kidnaper had been seen riding on a candy truck as a passenger were checked late Thursday afternoon, and bloodhounds were used in an effort to track the man, who was said to have escaped from the truck when officers got on his trail.

Mr. Ottley declined to reveal details of how he accomplished his release.

The youth accompanied Mr. Ottley to Wilson and Verner's store at Suwanee.

Mr. Ottley said that his light eight-cylinder sedan, driven by himself, was turning out of his driveway into Peachtree road when he saw a young man whom he recognized. The man asked for a lift to town, and Mr. Ottley replied, "Yes," he said.

As the man hurriedly got into the car, he pulled a pistol and stuck it in the banker's side, ordering him to get in the back of the car and keep still. The youth, who had been concealed, got into the car, and the youth drove off, Mr. Ottley said.

The banker estimated that the car was driven for an hour and 30 minutes before the place near Suwanee was reached. He said that the elder man directed the driver of the car, appearing to know every step of the way and causing the boy to stop or turn at certain places.

Passes Truck on Road.

At one point on the route, the car slowed down in passing a small truck, and the man at Mr. Ottley's side pressed the pistol into him tensely, the banker said.

"It was a funny thing," said the banker, "that as we passed the truck slowly, I looked into the face of the truck driver and he looked at me and the man beside me."

After this incident, Mr. Ottley's eyes were taped shut, and the car drove on to a spot south of Perry bridge, six miles northwest of Suwanee. Mr. Ottley said that the man told him, "As long as you keep still and don't say anything, you will not be harmed. I don't want to kill a man, but I know what I am up against and I am going through with it."

Mr. Ottley said that the man took his glasses, and that he asked that special care be taken of them, as he had to have a special fitting. "In that case," said the kidnaper, "I had better keep them," and he placed them in his pocket.

Mr. Ottley related that he was led to the bank of the Chattahoochee river and through some bushes, doubling back to a point half a mile into the woods. At this point, the elder kidnaper armed Bowen with a black-jack and tied Mr. Ottley's feet, sitting him on a log.

Rests Near Scene of Captivity

John K. Ottley, Atlanta banker who was kidnapped Thursday morning only to escape and lead a search for kidnaper, is shown above resting on the bumper of an automobile near the scene of his captivity, talking with a member of the posse which sought to trap the kidnaper on an expected return to the scene near Suwanee where Mr. Ottley spent an hour before escaping.—Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

the kidnaper told the youth that "if he moves, let him have it," Mr. Ottley said.

"The man told me he was going to Atlanta and would return in about two hours, after forcing me to write a letter to Mrs. Ottley," the banker said. "I asked him what I was to say and he told me to write my wife that I had been kidnapped, that I was being held and that my life was in danger. They were to say nothing to police and he would get in touch with them later."

The elder man left the banker under Bowen's guard and drove in the Ottley car to Mr. Ottley's home, where he delivered a note to Clifton Hall, negro caretaker, which said:

Text of Note.

"Your husband has been kidnapped. We are holding him for $40,000. If you notify the authorities, the police, the newspapers or anyone else, he will be killed. Instructions later. Get the money immediately—today if possible. Do you want your money or your husband? The money in $5, $10, $20, $50 bills. Which shall it be? If anyone asks about him say he was called out of the city for a few days. When I contact with you I will be known as E. M."

The note was written on a square piece of letter paper in pencilled capitals, with a dash between each word.

Mr. Ottley walked with the boy until he met Clarence McGinnis and Will Brock, farmers, and explained his plight. He was accompanied to the home of H. B. Johnson, who loaned the party in a truck and drove four miles to Wilson and Verner's store at Suwanee, where W. C. Kennedy, manager, showed Mr. Ottley to the only telephone in the community.

Phones Mrs. Ottley.

Mr. Ottley telephoned Mrs. Ottley at Tallulah Falls, and then called the bank, speaking to Frank Berry, cashier, who got Chief Sturdivant and hurried to Suwanee. Kennedy called Buford and had Bailiff Bob Davis and his son, Barney Davis, come to the store.

Nervous, but otherwise all right, Mr. Ottley waited in the store for officers, and remarked that the elder man had taken the only cash he had with him, $10, to make some telephone calls. Bowen, searching his pockets, brought out a little change and bought the banker a soft drink.

Chief Sturdivant, with Detectives C. W. Mauldin and L. D. Goff, arrived at the store and the officer drove to Perry bridge with Mr. Ottley. There, the party deployed in a trap to await the return of the kidnaper, the officer being armed with sawed-off shotguns.

Canned Goods Luncheon.

At lunch time, one canned goods and crackers were brought out from the Suwanee store, and the banker, sharing his food, stood with one foot on the running board of a car and spread potted meat on a cracker with a penknife. He complained that his glasses were gone, and Bowen gave him his own glasses, but they did not fit. Mr. Ottley said that he had also lost his pipe in the shuffle, and he was forced to "hum" cigarettes from the officers until an Atlanta newspaperman showed up with a cigar, which greatly pleased the banker.

Mr. Ottley was dressed in a gray suit, with a light brown shirt and a brown tie, topped by a Panama hat.

At his office, it was said that a man called during the day and spoke to Mr. Ottley's secretary, telling her that "Dr. Green" was calling to inform the bank that Mr. Ottley would not be in during the day.

Mrs. Ottley reached home about 8 o'clock last night from Tallulah Falls, arriving almost simultaneously with her husband, who had remained with the officers all afternoon in an effort to trap the kidnaper. Mr. Ottley and the officers had remained near the spot to which he had been taken in the hope that the elder kidnaper would return.

John K. Ottley Jr., who was at Sea Island and who flew to Candler field Thursday afternoon when he heard of the kidnapping, was met at the airport by a bank automobile which took him to the scene of the kidnapping. He arrived at the general store at Suwanee about 6 o'clock in the evening.

Early this morning Mr. Ottley's physician, who had been at the home for some hours, declared the banker had suffered no ill effects from his harrowing experience and aside from extreme fatigue was in perfect physical condition.

Bowen Son of Farmer.

Advices from Lavana Thursday afternoon were that Pryor Bowen was born and raised in that section, and that his father is a farmer living near Lavana. Bowen recently was in some trouble at Lavana, but the case, involving the alleged breaking into a store, was dismissed in municipal court, it was said.

Bowen attended high school at Lavana, and left last week ostensibly for Chicago, but was said to have had a temporary job with an Atlanta contractor. He worked on Lavana streets for a while in the R. F. C. projects being handled by the city, it was said. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bowen.

Mr. Ottley is one of the leading bankers of the south. He was one of the organizers of the old Fourth National Bank of Atlanta in 1890, and served as president from 1919 to 1929, when the Fourth merged with the Atlanta-Trust National bank, to become the First National, of which he was made president.

Mr. Ottley is a director of the Central of Georgia railroad, the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He is a trustee of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. and a member of North Avenue Presbyterian church. He belongs to the Piedmont Driving Club, the Athletic Club, the Capital City Club and the Masons. He was born in Columbus, Miss., on June 15, 1868, the son of John King Ottley and Ellen Gertrude Ottley, and was graduated from Southern Presbyterian University and Clarksville, Tenn. Mrs. Ottley formerly was Miss Passie Fenton Mercer, of Columbus, Miss. She is prominent in women's club work and charitable enterprises. They have two children, John K. Ottley Jr. and Mrs. George W. McCarty, and three grandchildren.

Swearing brothers on one side and Otto Kahn and the Pennsylvania railroad on the other were fighting domination of the eastern railroads.

Taplin stepped in and seized control of a vital rail link—the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad.

The rest is the story of the rise of any number of American millionaires—men whose native shrewdness enabled them to get control of something that somebody else wanted, and to hold on until the price was right.

Taplin told a fascinating story today, filled with secret negotiations, poker-faced bluffing, and deals running into millions of dollars concluded without touching a pen to paper. In the midst of it all he couldn't remember what his own salary is as president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad. His associates had to remind him it was $17,000 a year.

Organized Syndicate.

This is the way it started:

Taplin organized a syndicate which got control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad. Four railroad lines soon began to realize that the little road would be a valuable addition in the impending bitter war.

Ferdinand Devoe, committee counsel, asked Taplin what made him want control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

"We wanted to make some money out of it," Taplin replied.

They did. Syndicate members paid $52.50 a share for the stock. When it came time to sell they got $170 a share for it. Taplin was made manager of the syndicate with power to sell at any figure he chose. He did not even have to consult his associates.

The railroad battle became tense. Executives approached Taplin over a period of years, asking him to sell.

"I was willing to sell," he said, "and I wanted $200 a share. Nobody was willing to pay it, so I just held on."

We put Gulf-lube in 6 borrowed cars-and down came oil costs 28½%

AAA OFFICIALS START THE BORROWED CARS—The 6 average cars, models 1930 to 1933 inclusive, begin the 4-day grind to test leading 25c oils—in which Gulf-lube stood up 28½% longer than other 25c oils before a quart had to be added.

"YES, I'LL LOAN YOU MY CAR," said Miss Georgia MacDonald, a secretary, of 257 N. Oxford Street, Indianapolis. Like every other car in the test, Miss MacDonald's Plymouth brought in the verdict, "Gulf-lube lasts longer."

MEASURING THE EXACT OIL CONSUMPTION—The AAA Technical Expert checks the exact amount of oil drained from the crankcase. Every step of this test was checked for fairness and accuracy.

SIGNALING FROM THE "PITS"—Operating conditions were kept the same on each test. Speed was kept constant at 45 miles an hour.

In AAA* test, Gulf's brand-new "high mileage" motor oil beats other 25c oils hands down!

A GARAGE FOREMAN... a hotel owner... a secretary... a race driver—loaned their cars for the most daring test ever given a motor oil!

6 cars—some old, some new—were borrowed for this test from private owners. Then, under the direction of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, these cars were run around the Indianapolis Speedway—at a constant speed of 45 miles an hour.

One by one, each car tested four of America's finest 25c oils—for 4 days, 12 hours a day. And in every car of the six, Gulf-lube out-last its competitors!

In a day's run, for example, Car No. 3 consumed oil "B" at the rate of a quart every 300 miles. Yet on Gulf-lube, consumption dropped to a quart every 397 miles—nearly 100 more miles.

When the test was over, an average of all the figures—compiled by the AAA—showed this amazing result... Gulf-lube cut the oil costs on these cars 28½%—over one-fourth!

BODY OF GEORGIAN WASHED UP BY GULF

Dr. W. L. Taylor, of Bainbridge, Drowned During Fishing Trip.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—The body of Dr. W. L. Taylor, Bainbridge (Ga.) dentist, was recovered from the waters of the Gulf of Mexico at Turkey Point, south of here, late today.

Dr. Taylor and a companion, Julian McCall, of Quincy, had been missing since Tuesday, when they set out on a fishing trip in a 14-foot skiff. The skiff was located some distance from Taylor's body. The boat was upright when discovered, but indicated it had capsized. The body of McCall has not been recovered, and search continued with a patrol vessel of the state conservation commission and three seaplanes from the Pensacola naval air station participating.

Taylor's body was brought to Carabelle. An inquest was held at Turkey Point and a verdict of drowning was returned.

Dr. Taylor was about 38 years of age. He was married at Jacksonville a year ago.

MRS. AUGUSTA LAMBDIN TO QUIT GORDON POST

BARNESVILLE, Ga., July 6.—Mrs. Augusta Lambdin, for 35 years a teacher at Gordon Institute in Barnesville, and who has served as librarian at the Carnegie library here, will retire from active duty September 1.

Mrs. Lambdin has been named by the state board of education as one of 100 teachers in Georgia to receive a "certificate of honorable service." She is a member of the Lamar League Chapter of the D. A. R., the Willie Hunt Smith Chapter of the U. D. C., the Woman's Club, the Three Arts Club, and the American Legion Auxiliary. The local P. T. A. was named in her honor. She also has served as vice president of the Georgia State Teachers' Association.

Mrs. Lambdin's most notable achievement is the recently published Lamar county history, of which she was editor, and for which she had gathered material for years. The book has received favorable comment from every corner of the state.

Mrs. Lambdin will remain in Barnesville, and will keep her connection with the library, serving on the board of trustees. She will be succeeded by Mrs. J. E. Bush, who has been assisting for the past year.

Paul Brown, Tenth District Congressman

Paul Brown, Elberton attorney, Wednesday was named congressman from the tenth Georgia district to fill the unexpired term of the late Charles H. Brand. Brown rolled up an overwhelming majority over his eight opponents, including two women, carrying 16 of the 17 counties in the district. In the picture above he is shown at home in Elberton with his family: Rosalyn, 4 (left); Mrs. Brown and his son, Bobby, 13. In the lower picture, Judge W. D. Tutt, law partner of Brown, is shown looking over one of hundreds of congratulatory messages received by the new congressman.

SAVANNAH TO PROBE TAXI COMPETITION

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6.—A thorough inquiry on the part of the city as to the operation of taxi-cabs in Savannah is in prospect.

There was a time when Savannah had very prosperous "jitney" lines. These were legislated out of business.

Now there has sprung up a taxi-cab service with a maximum fare of a dime. This is the cost of a street car ride in Savannah, and it is said that the 10-cent cabs are getting much business that formerly went to the street cars.

Mayor Gamble is having all the taxi-cab operators looked up, and states he hopes to have an ordinance passed that will be fair to both the trolley line and the cab drivers.

MIAMI WOMAN DIES IN GA. AUTO CRASH

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Stromfield, wife of Max Stromfield, of Miami, Fla., was killed when a car in which she was riding struck a cow and overturned at South Newport on the Coastal highway tonight. Her son, Graham Gorn, of Passaic, N. J., who was driving the car, was slightly hurt.

JURY DECLARES GIRL MET DEATH BY INJURY

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—A coroner's jury here today returned an open verdict in the death of Mrs. Irene Moore Taconi, 18-year-old Mississippi State Teachers' College student. The jury said the death by injury but added that the jury did not know whether the injury was "self-inflicted or inflicted by others."

BONES OF 2 CHINESE SHIPPED TO FAR EAST

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6.—Much local interest is evinced in shipping circles in the exporting through Savannah of the bones of four Chinese sent here from Augusta. The bones came in a long box divided into four compartments. Each set of bones had been carefully cleaned and the identification of the dead men was retained through the proper marking of the bones. The shipment came by rail to Savannah and was made to the Far East by steamer.

The bones were taken to San Francisco, and when those from other parts of the United States are assembled there, all are sent to China.

MRS. VANCE'S DEATH IS TERMED SUICIDE

A verdict of suicide was returned Thursday in the case of Mrs. R. B. Vance, 50, wife of the manager of the Underwood-Elliott Fisher Company at 159 Spring street, who was found shot to death Wednesday in a downtown hotel. The inquest was held at the establishment of Brandon-Bond-Condou Company.

The body was taken Thursday night to New Orleans, La., for funeral services and interment.

Mrs. Vance, who resided in New Orleans, was visiting her husband when she was transferred here as manager only a short time ago. Mr. Vance said his wife was in ill health and had been despondent. The woman's body was found in the bathroom of her husband's suite with a bullet wound in the head.

SAVANNAH COLLECTS $2,525 IN BEER FEES

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 5.—(AP)—The city of Savannah has received $2,525 in license fees for sale of 3.2 beer since the passage of the city ordinance permitting their issuance three months ago. The city treasurer's office reported today that in addition to this amount collected there was in progress of collection an equivalent amount, which would bring the total to approximately $5,000 before the summer is over.

The city license is $25 for retailers and $150 for wholesalers. There are six wholesalers operating here, the others being retailers.

SOUTH CAROLINA TAX ON BEER YIELDS $40,726

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 6.—(AP)—South Carolina's beer tax yielded $40,726 in June, W. G. Query, tax commission chairman, reported today. The total for the year is approximately $14, has brought in $93,036 in state revenue, Query said.

COLUMBUS MAN DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Reuben Sims Crenshaw, well-known resident of Columbus and Birmingham, died today after being hospitalized last night from injuries received in a fall through the elevator shaft of a local hotel Tuesday night.

Mr. Crenshaw, 40, was in the furniture business here, retired several years ago. He had been devoting his time to real estate holdings here and in Birmingham.

He was taken to the hospital at Uchee, Ala., November 27, 1930.

State Deaths And Funerals

BASCOMB LEROY JORDAN. Milledgeville, Ga., July 6.—Bascomb Leroy Jordan, 30, died Thursday after an illness of several months. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. L. J. Jordan, and two sons, Norman Jones and Mrs. Daisy Parker, of Rome; three sons, Henry Lee, Bascomb, and Mrs. M. D. Hunsbrey, of Warrenton, and Mrs. Mary Lou Jordan, of Augusta, his company representative, said that a group of bus operators met at Commissioner McDonald's rooms at Augusta one morning to discuss a merger proposal which the commissioner approved but which failed to go through because the operators were unable to reach an agreement. He said he once was accompanied to South Carolina by the commissioner but that he went with Mr. McDonald because the commissioner was blind and unable to get about the strange city by himself.

Phone Cut Demanded By Tennessee Cities

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—The cities of Memphis, Chattanooga, Nashville and Knoxville filed a petition today with the state railroad and public utilities commission asking that telephone rates in Tennessee be reduced "to reasonable figures."

The petition declared that subscribers of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, which was named as defendant, are entitled to a reduction of 20 per cent of the rentals charged for exchange service. It also alleged that the 25-cent-per-month charge for cradle-type telephones is "an excessive and unreasonable charge," and declared that this should be reduced to 15 cents, this amount to be charged only until the cost of such sets has been paid to the company.

The commission recently reduced the monthly charge for the cradle-type telephones from 50 cents to 25 cents.

Filing of the petition followed a conference between officials of the four cities and executives of the telephone company at which the municipalities presented demands for reduced charges.

Finds Neck Broken Month After Crash

MACON, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Floord Gosson broke his neck but didn't know it for a month.

Four weeks ago his automobile plunged into a ditch and he was knocked unconscious. A traveling salesman brought him to a hospital here, but doctors could find nothing more serious than a bad scalp wound, numerous lacerations and bruises, so they sent him home.

Later he began suffering with pains in his neck and within a week or more he found it difficult to hold his head up.

He returned to the hospital yesterday and a more thorough examination revealed one of the neck vertebrae broken.

Now his neck is in a cast and doctors say he must remain at the hospital several weeks.

M. P. FREEMAN

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., July 6.—M. P. Freeman, 74, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon at the home of his son, Hubert Freeman, near here. He was a retired farmer who operated a grocery in the New Hope section for many years. The deceased is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Ledford Blount, Mrs. Jimmie Hayes, Mrs. A. T. Haney Jr. and Hubert Freeman, all of Lawrenceville, and two brothers, J. and S. Freeman, of Lawrenceville. Funeral will be held from 11 o'clock the Rev. Mr. Nichols, of Loganville, officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

RATE REDUCTIONS CITED IN DEFENSE OF UTILITY GROUP

at various times halted to answer questions from the governor, Jack C. Sasser, attorney for the growers, as well as questions from attorneys for the members of the commission.

The rate expert brought out in his testimony that the commission has been making a thorough study of the present telephone rates in Georgia with a view toward directing a general downward revision of these rates.

"For some time the commission has been making a deep and thorough study of the telephone rates in Georgia with a view toward revising them downward," he said. "The investigation is not quite concluded."

Rate Revisions Related

During his appearance on the stand Thursday Mr. Price related that on the revision of rates ordered by the commission in 1923, which he said brought general reductions all over the state.

Likewise, he listed the activities of the commission on gas rates, freight rates and electric energy rates, spending considerable time discussing the various efforts made by the commission to force the interstate commerce commission to fix schedules which would be beneficial to Georgia shippers.

"The commission always has had the best interests of the businessmen of Georgia at heart, as well as the farmers," Mr. Price said. "The members have always been extremely cautious not to set aside by the courts, because they have found out that if they order too drastic reductions he utilities bill will go into court and enjoin the entire reduction, thereby cutting the public off from reductions which were reasonable."

Mr. Price went into the gas rate structure at great detail, citing cases which, he said, showed that the rates fixed by the public service commission had brought natural gas to Georgia from the gas fields of Louisiana at rates cheaper than those which previously had been charged for artificial gas.

Chairman James A. Perry said he did not know if the commission members would take the stand to answer for themselves or to leave the answer rest on the testimony of Mr. Price. Commissioner Albert Woodruff said this was about Thursday on account of illness, but the other members, Mr. Perry and Commissioners Perry T. Knight, Walter R. McDonald and Julie W. Felton, were present.

The testimony regarding the reduction in charges for electric current was presented through the following: R. O. Arnold, of Covington, general manager and treasurer of the Covington Cotton Mills; T. A. Knight, Atlanta ice manufacturer; Ralph Hancock, also an ice manufacturer; W. J. Holden, manager of the Merit Mills of Columbus; W. E. McKown, treasurer of the LaFayette Mills of LaFayette; T. J. Grimes, manager of the Chickopee Mills at Chickopee; T. A. Johnson, of Savannah, electrical engineer for the Central of Georgia railroad; and J. O. Crowell, state manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce.

Businessmen Testify

All of the businessmen who testified asserted that they had found that they could get power cheaper from Georgia Power Company than they could manufacture it themselves and also that the electric rates in Georgia were as low or lower than rates charged by similar companies in surrounding states.

Mr. Crowell, who qualified to the governor's satisfaction as an expert, testified that in his opinion, it was possible to obtain lower freight rates for Georgia.

Others who testified that their electric rates had been lowered were: W. R. Beldon, managing director of the Clark Thread Company, of Austell; R. Y. Mallory, Dry Branch mill; H. B. Baxter Jones, representative of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, of Macon; H. O. Ball, of the Pepper-Turner Mills, of Cedartown, and A. T. Matthews, of the Goodrich Mills, of McDonough.

Before closing their case on direct testimony the movants presented Mr. Johnson for a second time and A. C. Shipman, of Augusta, his company representative, said that a group of bus operators met at Commissioner McDonald's rooms at Augusta one morning to discuss a merger proposal which the commissioner approved but which failed to go through because the operators were unable to reach an agreement.

He said he once was accompanied to South Carolina by the commissioner but that he went with Mr. McDonald because the commissioner was blind and unable to get about the strange city by himself.

Phone Cut Demanded By Tennessee Cities

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—The cities of Memphis, Chattanooga, Nashville and Knoxville filed a petition today with the state railroad and public utilities commission asking that telephone rates in Tennessee be reduced "to reasonable figures."

The petition declared that subscribers of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, which was named as defendant, are entitled to a reduction of 20 per cent of the rentals charged for exchange service. It also alleged that the 25-cent-per-month charge for cradle-type telephones is "an excessive and unreasonable charge," and declared that this should be reduced to 15 cents, this amount to be charged only until the cost of such sets has been paid to the company.

Finds Neck Broken Month After Crash

MACON, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Floord Gosson broke his neck but didn't know it for a month.

Four weeks ago his automobile plunged into a ditch and he was knocked unconscious. A traveling salesman brought him to a hospital here, but doctors could find nothing more serious than a bad scalp wound, numerous lacerations and bruises, so they sent him home.

Later he began suffering with pains in his neck and within a week or more he found it difficult to hold his head up.

He returned to the hospital yesterday and a more thorough examination revealed one of the neck vertebrae broken.

M. P. FREEMAN

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., July 6.—M. P. Freeman, 74, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon at the home of his son, Hubert Freeman, near here. He was a retired farmer who operated a grocery in the New Hope section for many years. The deceased is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Ledford Blount, Mrs. Jimmie Hayes, Mrs. A. T. Haney Jr. and Hubert Freeman, all of Lawrenceville, and two brothers, J. and S. Freeman, of Lawrenceville. Funeral will be held from 11 o'clock the Rev. Mr. Nichols, of Loganville, officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

COTTON CUT HITS 2,600,000 ACRES

Optimistic Report on Crop Reduction Is Prepared for F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Farmers in 16 cotton states have offered to plow up more than 2,600,000 acres of their growing crop in return for cash benefits and options on government-held cotton.

This was reported unofficially today after Secretary Wallace and George N. Peek, chief administrator of the farm act, made an optimistic report to President Roosevelt regarding progress in the acreage reduction campaign begun last week.

The campaign, which was to have closed Saturday, will be extended into next week, due to delays which farm administrators were reported not to regard as serious.

Formal announcement of the extension of the time during which growers will be permitted to sign contracts is tentatively scheduled to be made Saturday.

More Optimistic

Wallace and Peek were described as having shown more optimism over the outcome of the cotton program, the first major production control plan undertaken since the passage of the farm act, than at any time since it was initiated.

Their program has for its goal reduction of the potential cotton crop by approximately 3,000,000 bales.

They have estimated that from 10,000,000 to 11,000,000 acres will have to be taken out of producing, as the average cotton yield is one-third of a bale to the acre.

It was said that in addition to pledges to plow up 2,600,000 acres—with a yield roughly estimated at more than a million bales—there are contracts still awaiting final check in the hands of about 22,000 extension agents and other workers accounting for approximately another million acres.

Want Time

More than 8,000,000 contract forms have been printed in order to assure growers of the cotton program. It was discovered that many growers wanted to study the government offer closely and a serious problem in the first days of the campaign, today was reported to have nearly disappeared as a characteristic of returns.

Estimates Checked

Over-estimates are being checked quickly by inspectors who examine the fields which farmers offer to plow up and make an estimate of its yield. In cases where the yield has been over-estimated the farmers are given the opportunity of signing another contract with a more modest estimate.

In signing a contract farmers are required to offer at least 25 per cent of their crop and up to 50 per cent. In instances farmers have sought to offer their entire crop but this is not being accepted.

To Wait Till Close

No official figures showing the acreage offered will be made available until the close of the campaign, when figures will be tabulated for Wallace. He will then announce his decision as to whether the program will be put into effect.

In addition, a processing tax scheduled to go into effect about August 1 is aimed to yield about $100,000,000, which it is expected will be paid out in cash benefits as soon as inspectors have verified that farmers have plowed up portions of their crop covered by contracts which Wallace accepts.

GEORGIANS PLEDGE 358,820-ACRE CUT

ATHENS, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Georgia farmers have signed agreements to take 358,820 acres out of cultivation under the acreage reduction program of the United States department of agriculture, it was announced here tonight by authorities who have the campaign in charge for Georgia.

These figures summed up reports from 92 counties where 46,837 contracts have been signed since the beginning of the campaign.

The amount of cash up to date requested by farmers who want to avail themselves of the straight benefit cash plan totals $1,710,177, and the cash with option $2,621,000.

The total of bales taken on the option plan is 109,862.

Atlantans To Assist In Drawing Road Code

C. D. Redwine and V. C. Ellington, well-known Atlanta bus officials, were two of 11 southeastern men named Thursday as delegates to the meeting of the American Highway Freight Association in Chicago July 11 to draw up a code of fair competition to apply to all highway carriers.

They were elected at a meeting of representatives of notable carrier companies of eight southern states held in Greenville, S. C. The delegates were not instructed on minimum wage and maximum hour recommendations but were told to maintain a solid front for a wage differential as applicable to eastern and southern carriers who were faced with different basic wage requirements and living conditions.

ATLANTA IS KILLED IN ROAD ACCIDENT

MANGO, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—W. E. Zehrbach, 31, an electrical engineer of Atlanta, Ga., died yesterday from injuries received in being thrown from his horse which was struck and killed by an automobile.

Zehrbach and his wife came here four months ago to be with her father, C. R. Zehrbach. At the time of the accident Zehrbach was riding Elam drive cattle along a highway. No arrests have been made.

Zehrbach is survived by his widow; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Zehrbach, of Los Angeles, Cal.; three brothers, Leroy H. of Atlanta, and Cleve and Robert, of Los Angeles, and two sisters, Agnes and Gladys, also of Los Angeles.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 7, 1933.

AD VALOREM TAX MUST GO.

The one-mill reduction in the state ad valorem tax ordered by Governor Talmadge is the first step towards the end of this type of taxation in Georgia, the people at the ballot box having already declared in favor of its abolition by degrees.

The taxpayers of the state will be far better off when relieved of the inequalities of the ad valorem system.

It is an uncertain method of raising government revenues and in times such as those of the past few years it not only fails of its purpose but results in unjust and unreasonable hardships.

Real estate has been harder hit during the depression than any other type of taxable property, and yet has been forced, under the ad valorem system, to carry a disproportionate part of the tax burden. Many home owners have found it impossible to pay their taxes and thousands of foreclosures have resulted, causing the loss of large equities.

Several states have already abolished ad valorem taxation, balancing their budgets by other forms of taxation. Ultimately Georgia will do the same thing and the result will be a more equitable distribution of the burden of taxation.

A similar step must be taken by all county and municipal governments, whose taxes are the heaviest burden upon the taxpayers.

The state tax, limited by law to five mills, is inconsequential in comparison with the heavy levies for the support of local government. Many county tax rates in Georgia are above 15 mills, and those levied for the support of municipal governments are equally high.

In the reduction of these high rates lies the greatest relief for the taxpayer, and the chief importance of the governor's order for a reduction in the state rate is the example it sets the county and municipal governments of the state. If economies can be effected in the state government that will make possible a 20 per cent tax reduction, the same thing can, and should, be done in the case of the local governments.

Undoubtedly the action of the governor will be generally approved, not only for the relief it will afford, but in the hope that it will bring a similar annual reduction until all ad valorem taxation has been abolished in Georgia.

MAKING MEN OF BOYS.

For the seventh year the Bert Adams Boy Scout camp is giving hundreds of Atlanta boys opportunity for wholesome recreation and invaluable training that many of them would otherwise be unable to secure.

There are now 150 boys in the camp, which occupies a beautiful site near Vinings, across the Chattahoochee river in Cobb county. Their camping period will be over by July 15, when other groups will take their place for succeeding camping periods.

The camp is conducted under the auspices of the Atlanta Council, Boy Scouts of America, and group rates, based on the actual expense of conducting the camp, are as low as $6 per week.

Here boys are given a camping experience that builds character and trains for citizenship. Under fine leadership they contest for camp honors, are given instruction in woodcraft of all kinds, and participate in sports and athletic contests.

The parents of every Boy Scout should plan to let him have the joy and beneficial training to be found at the Bert Adams camp, especially since the expense involved amounts to so little.

A WISE VETO.

The action of the mayor in vetoing the proposed 5 per cent salary raise for city employees will be generally approved in view of the city's inability to pay for the increase.

The raise was authorized by council on the basis of anticipated revenues, which will not materialize. The mayor's action was the only safe course to preserve the city's credit.

The city government cannot raise salaries until its budget is balanced beyond question. Its first duty is to balance the budget, live within its income, and reduce taxation.

There are some who, for selfish or other reasons, would be willing to raise salaries even at the cost of municipal credit, but such a policy leads to bankruptcy.

It took courage for the mayor to veto this measure, and he should receive approval of all who believe, with him, that the city's credit must be the prime consideration of its municipal government.

THEY GOT THE WRONG MAN.

The shock experienced by the public at the announcement of the kidnapping of John K. Ottley, president of the First National bank, was softened by the quickly following news that this leading Atlanta citizen had, with his usual ability to successfully meet any situation that might arise, effected his escape.

The kidnapers picked the wrong man when they attempted to make a getaway with John Ottley. His long and eventful career has been marked by an unusual faculty to rise to any emergency when occasion demanded.

The plot of the kidnapers was evidently well laid and the plan might have succeeded with a man of less determination and ingenuity. But, like "the best laid plans of mice and men," they went for naught, because a critical situation to John Ottley is merely another test to be successfully overcome by mettle and pluck.

The story of the episode reads like a chapter of the frontier days of the once wild west. But they "got the wrong man" this time—at which all Atlanta rejoices.

REPRESENTATIVE-ELECT BROWN.

The election of Paul Brown, of Elberton, to fill the vacancy in the tenth congressional district caused by the death of Representative Charles H. Brand, adds an able and active member to the Georgia delegation in congress.

By experience and ability the congressman-elect is eminently qualified to render splendid service in full accord with the progressive policies of the democratic administration.

A lawyer of marked ability, Representative-elect Brown is intimately acquainted with the problems of agriculture, being himself the owner and operator of several large farms. His service in the Georgia general assembly makes him already familiar with legislative affairs.

Both in public and private life the new congressman's record has been marked by an unusual tenacity and an indomitable fighting spirit, qualities largely responsible for the success he has achieved and the general respect in which he is held.

He will add strength to the Georgia delegation and the state will benefit from his service as a member of its delegation in the congress.

Japanese Recovery.

Apart from Japan's military campaigns, which is a sordid business, little is heard of what is going on inside the country. I do not mean the big shipping trusts and the banks and the noble samurais, but the common people. How are they getting along? A few months ago the situation was reported utterly disastrous, especially in the rural regions. Peasants were selling their children for food. Miser and destitution had reached unheard-of proportions. And now suddenly comes news from an authentic source that things are brightening up and we learn that the Japanese government much as it may have spent on war has spent still more on social work. This is good news.

When, as a result of the acute economic distress, the finance minister was assassinated and later the prime minister, it was felt in observant circles that Japan was on the verge of an upheaval not unlike the Russian revolution. For such revolutions do not occur simply by the will of some genial propagandist or agitator, they are born of economic distress and nothing else. If a measure of prosperity returns the menace of revolution soon fades into the background.

One of the principal policies of the Japanese government was the initiation of public works and other undertakings designed to relieve unemployment and to bring about the freer circulation of money. That was the liberal policy on unemployment applied in Japan in 1932 and that is the policy being applied by President Roosevelt in America today. The British embassy report states specifically (this is the ambassadorial report from Tokyo) that as a result of the forward policy a feeling of optimism took the place of economic despair and the present remarkable industrial revival of Japan has been the result. Those are the exact words: Remarkable industrial revival.

That is going to be the result of President Roosevelt's policy in America also.

Spain Versus Religion.

After the soviet union and Mexico, the republic of Spain deals a disastrous blow to organized religion, the religious orders and the church have been dissolved. What this means may be gauged from the information that tens of thousands of hospitals, asylums, schools, etc., are to be closed. There is not the slightest hope of a mitigation of the governmental decree. The only reversal of the order could come from a restored monarchy. And there exactly lies the crux of the question. For centuries the church in Spain has been closely linked with the monarchy. The church was, in fact, the monarchy's surest prop. The monarchy itself in the person of Don Alfonso, of Bourbon lineage, but the church and the clergy had to stay behind to face the music. That music is not a pleasant tune. For churches are still burning in Spain, seven only last week, showing that the tenor of the people is still bitter against the king's allies.

A Word for The Dogs.

It is summer. The dog days will be upon us soon. Our friends the canine quadrupeds are feeling the heat as we do. There are a few days when they will be in torment. A wet rag on the kitchen floor will be a great comfort. Tight neckbands are a torture. Loosen them. Muzzles are a monstrosity. It is time to turn from drinking. Try to do without them. Keep the dog quiet during the hot days. Rabies are a result of overheating. Don't feed him too heavily. But let him drink to his heart's content. (Copyright, 1933, by The Constitution.)

Health Talks
BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

SO THE SKIN ABSORBS

A florist at work in his greenhouse sat down on a chair on which some nicotine solution (one of the various spray sprays used against plant pests) and his clothes were wet through with the poison for an area the size of the palm. He continued working, but in about 15 minutes he was taken with nausea and faintness. He took a drink of water and immediately vomited and continued to retch. He went out in the open air and found himself in a drenching sweat. His breathing became labored and painful. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. On admission to the hospital he lost consciousness and did not recover consciousness till three hours later. He lay semi-conscious, writhing, moaning, gasping, with rapid 40 respirations, irregular heartbeat, 80, rectal temperature lowered to 95.6 F., pupils pinpoint, pulse feeble, extremities cold, no tendon reflexes.

They were puzzled as to the diagnosis. The patient was given stimulating hypodermic injections and external heat applied.

Next day he was recovered except for some confusion under the head, weakness and slight nausea. He was discharged on the fourth day. His clothes had been put away in a paper bag, and they were still damp where they had been wet with the nicotine solution. But he dressed and went his way rejoicing.

But within an hour after leaving the hospital he was again seized with nausea, vomiting, sweating and difficulty in breathing (painfully reminiscent of that first clear, eh, fellow) and was readmitted to the hospital. He was not so sick this time, but after four more days, three weeks later he still complained of weakness, sweating, vertigo, change of position, insomnia, nervousness, and constant sense of pressure under the breastbone, worse on exertion.

(Here it is fair to say that an insurance company was interested in the man's disability. That may account for some of the symptoms that persisted.)

The man was in good health four months later, but he said he was unable to go into a greenhouse where the nicotine spray was being used without suffering immediate nausea. The man, by the way, has long smoked and still enjoys five or six pipes daily.

The Boston doctor reporting the case arbitrarily asserts that the nicotine was absorbed directly through the skin. Then, like a regular "scientist," he cites some experiments to sustain his funny notion. The fur was carefully shaved from part of the belly of a cat, unanesthetized but fastened on its back to a board. Some of the same 40 per cent nicotine solution used for spraying was poured over this area and gently sopped and rubbed in with gloved fingers. The area thus wet with nicotine was covered with an inverted glass dish held down tightly with adhesive tape.

Why? The "scientist" might have evaporated less rapidly. It takes very little nicotine fumes to poison a small animal, when inhaled. The experiment would hardly prevent mice from escaping, though it might keep them from escaping.

Aha—so there are fumes to be taken into consideration? The method described would hardly prevent mice from escaping, though it might keep them from escaping.

periment is not scientific at all, unless control animals are used with provision against inhalation of any of the fumes. (Copyright, 1933, by The Constitution.)

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

SCHEMES WASHINGTON, July 6.—The farm subsidiary trustees of the brain trust have been in a rather for some days now.

They see nature taking the farm issue right out of their hands. Prices are rising so rapidly that the program is embarrassed. There is grave fear that the natural law will settle things before they can. That would not do at all. If prices go too high they cannot use the processing tax. If they cannot use the processing tax, adequate acreage curtailment will be hard to accomplish next year.

So they have accepted a little scheme.

ESTIMATING They found their new farm law full of jokers. It states, for instance, the processing tax shall be fixed on a basis of "the current average farm price."

That means the commodity prices you read in the papers every day are not considered. They are Chicago, New York and other sectional prices. On wheat the average farm price is about 20 cents below the Chicago price. So as far as the farm bill is concerned we will not have $1 wheat until the Chicago price is $1.20 or thereabouts.

But further than that the agriculture department estimates the "current average farm price," for itself. It cannot walk from farm to farm. The bill does not say what farms should be considered, how far they should be from railroads. Conceivably the department might consider the price of wheat at a farm in Hawaii.

It will not go that far. But the situation may give you an inkling of what a few brain trustees can do interpreting a piece of legislation when they really set their minds to it.

PROCESSING You may have wondered where they got this 30 cents processing tax on wheat. There is some humor in that also.

The agriculture department announces on the 15th of each month the results of surveys previously made on farm prices. On June 15 the farm wheat price was fixed at 58 cents a bushel. It was then selling on the Chicago exchange at about 78 cents.

By economic legdemain, the economists figured that the average farm price should have been 88.4 cents per bushel. At that price, they deduced, the farmer could have bought what he did from 1909 to 1914 with a bushel of wheat.

So the difference between what the price was and what it should have been was 30 cents. That was fixed upon as the processing tax.

The trick in it is that the tax goes into effect tomorrow (Friday) midnight, but is based on calculations made nearly six weeks ago or more, when the natural price was far less than it is today.

Also there is nothing in the law which requires the department to change the tax no matter how high wheat goes at Chicago. It can stick to those low June 15 figures until embarrassed into changing them.

The trick behind these backstage maneuvers is that laws of nature and of congress are not going to stand in the way of the determined fellows on the farm front. They know what they are after.

SMOKE This idea of a dollar based on a commodity price index is just in the formative stage.

President Roosevelt started everyone talking about it by mentioning it in his London conference note. He has nothing definite in mind now. Later something along that line may be worked out, but certainly not any time soon.

The present program is to work the dollar down lower in relation to other currencies. It appears the index dollar talk is designed largely as a smoke screen for that movement.

STRATEGY The same tactics are noticeable in Mr. Roosevelt's urgent request that the conference continue. Under the surface here no one wants the conference to continue. They all know it cannot, unless it put the weather on the agenda.

The consensus of backstage opinion is that the president performed a beautifully strategic job in accomplishing his new purpose. What he really wanted was to be free from any entangling international alliances for the time being.

It is the first conference since the war in which we have not given up something.

GOLD The idea of a free gold market has been dropped by those at the top. That is a natural result of the new stand taken at London.

A free market would mean no revaluation of the gold dollar. President Roosevelt is not ready to waive his revaluation power just yet. The crux of his scheme is to keep the possibility of revaluation in the forefront of the public mind.

It buoys things up.

COTTON The trustees have been berating the cotton farmers under their breaths. It seems the plantation owners have not signed up for acreage curtailment on the scale expected.

The situation became so embarrassing Agriculture Secretary Wallace called off one of his press conferences. The department stopped giving out figures showing how many had signed.

That is the reason the cotton program has been delayed somewhat. It was to have gone into effect at the same time as the wheat processing tax.

NOTES President Roosevelt's handling of the London conference resembles nothing else much as the old-time "vodvil" act of two comedians. One would help the other up gently, dust him off neatly and then punch him in the nose. By the time the process had been repeated three or four times, the crowd was usually in an uproar.

The financial advertisements in New York newspapers show how widely is the trading on prominent administration names. One issue recently had an advertisement by "Roosevelt and Son, Brokers," "John L. Morgenthau and Co.," and an announcement that a Mr. Achenbach had become manager of the New York Times. All three advertisements were on the same newspaper page. Whether they had any connection with administration officials of the same name was not made clear.

A seldom seen member of the brain trust, Professor Warren, of Cornell, had more to do with the preparation of Mr. Roosevelt's rebuke to the London conference than you will ever know. Some credit also is due John Maynard Keynes, whose ideas were freely expressed.

Would You Sell Your Food for Money If No Amount of Money Could Buy Food?

By Robert Quillen

In the little mountain village where this is written, life is mellowed by a placid philosophy seldom found elsewhere in America.

Seven consecutive summers have failed to reveal a trace of restless ambition or lust for money or covetous envy.

Of those born in the hills, many now live in little wooden houses at the side of the road and depend on a garden, a cow and a few hens for much of their living. They work at odd jobs when there is work to be had, but with or without work they seem to have no capacity for anxiety.

The outlanders are professional and businessmen for the most part, but they go about their affairs with the same curious detachment. The necessary business of making some money is not a desperate competition, but merely an unimportant chore to be finished before one can go fishing.

It is no frantic struggle to "get ahead," no worry about tomorrow, no apparent pride of possession. There is only a placid acceptance of life, a quiet contentment, a strange and tolerant indifference to all that is called "worldly."

What is the explanation? Where did these people learn such wisdom? A second gift of life taught them the art of living. They once felt the cold touch of death and then were given a new span of life. They are "arrested cases" or "cures." They came with hollow eyes and thin white hands, and the pine-scented air of the mountains made them well again. Now they are content just to live.

There are many others, of course, who never have been ill; but the pace is set by those who learned the worth of life by coming so close to losing it.

And the pace matches the setting, for this is a land of infinite peace. The sun is down now and the blue hills are changing to purple. There is no sound except the sleepy twitter of birds, the distant lowing of cows waiting to be milked, and the murmur of the pines and the hemlocks.

It is good to be alive in a world as God made it. Few Americans are conscious of life. From youth to old age they live in a kind of madness. The world is too much with them. They are entranced by the business of getting money. They haven't time to live.

Yet all are under sentence of death, and at the last would give all that they possess for one more day of life. How foolish it is to waste time in getting money you don't need when all the world's wealth can't buy another moment of time.

We Do Hope Everyone Will Use Our New Leisure for the Right Purpose

THE THIRTY HOUR WEEK GIVES EVERYONE TWO HOURS EXTRA EACH DAY TO USE TOWARD THE IMPROVEMENT OF SOCIETY

RAIL LINES TREBLE INCOMES FOR MAY

Operating Funds Mount to $40,693,072 From $11,665,702.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—A more than three-fold increase in net operating income for Class I railroads in May as compared to May, 1932, was shown today in a report by the bureau of railway economics.

In May, 1933, the net operating income was $40,693,072, an annual rate of return of 2.04 per cent on property invested, while in May last year the net was only $11,665,702, or 0.58 per cent.

Net earnings, however, for the first five months of 1933 were less than those for the comparative months of last year. The report placed the figures for 1933 at $93,431,647, while in 1932 the net was $97,313,173.

Gross operating revenues for the first five months of 1933 were totaled by the bureau at $1,136,926,253, as compared to $1,239,825,485 for the first five months of 1932, a 15 per cent slump.

A sharp decrease in operating expenses also was noted for the comparative period. The railroads ran at a cost of $888,621,639 for the first five months of 1933, against $1,069,588,880 for the first months of 1932, a reduction of 17.4 per cent.

Sixty-four Class I roads, the report said, failed to earn expenses and taxes in the first five months of 1933. Of these, 16 were in the eastern district, 12 in the southern and 36 in the western.

Hoot Gibson will be one month abed as a result of his airplane accident. Broken ribs, black eyes, lacerations and severe shock, but the concussion which showed at first and gave doctors much worry is a thing of the past. Sally Eilers, who is separated from Hoot Gibson, has just returned from England where she had a marvelous time with the London smart set and was feted by titles galore.

SECURITIES RULES DRAFTED BY I. C. C.

Regulations Aimed at Protection of Investing
Public of U. S.

By WILLIAM L. BEALE.
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Protection of the investing public without handicapping general business financing was listed as the chief objective of the federal trade commission today in an announcement promulgating its rules for enforcing the federal securities act.

This statement of policy accompanied publication of the many-worded list of regulations through which the commission will supervise future security sales, and a 37-page registration form on which issuers must tell the commission and the public the financial facts supporting their securities.

Registration certificates, which encompass the financial background of a business issuing new securities, must be filed with the commission in triplicate. Together with them must go five copies of the advertising prospectus to be issued on the security.

Some of the more bulky data required in the registration certificate need not be included in prospectuses. Important among the allowed omissions from advertising circulars are the discounts and commissions paid underwriters.

Registration certificates must be on file 20 days before they become effective. Filing does not become mandatory until July 27.

Important facts required in the registration certificate include:

- Up-to-date balance sheets;
- Names of underwriters and owners of more than 10 per cent of any one class of the company's outstanding stock;
- Lists of persons to be offered the issue at prices below those paid by the general public;
- Articles of incorporation of the business and latest annual reports.

INDUSTRIAL PLANS NOW IN BALANCES, RICHBERG STATES

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—A 60-day period was set today by the counsel for the industrial recovery administration as a test of whether American business will rise to the direction of private industry.

"If the industrial control plan should fail," Donald R. Richberg told the New York Merchants Association, "it will not be a failure of government; it will be the failure of an industrial system."

"It will mean either that the system is fundamentally unsound or that the present managers of private industry are incapable of operating it successfully."

"If the program is not rolling forward within the next 60 days because of the holding back of either group (business or labor), they will be indicted for incompetence by the suffering millions who are now giving to industrial leadership one more chance—perhaps the last—to justify its existence."

Political control of private industry was termed inevitable by Richberg in the event business fumbles this opportunity.

'Flu' Germ Isolation Is Claimed by Britons

LONDON, July 6.—(UP)—The forthcoming issue of the Lancet, a medical journal to be published Saturday, will say that experiments carried out by three British doctors have led to the discovery of the primary cause of influenza.

The article asserts that as a result there can be no repetition of the major influenza epidemics such as occurred in 1918 and 1920, killing 15,000,000 persons, according to statistics.

Doctors Wilson Smith, C. H. Andrews and P. P. Laidlaw, of the National Institute of Medical Research, are said to have found that influenza is caused by a filter-passing virus which they isolated by infecting ferrets.

In Georgia's Fields and Streams

By H. A. CARTER

DAMSEL-FLIES.
Along the lazy streams that flow through this section of Georgia as well as the southern portions of the state are many handsome insects. Of the multitudes that swarm these streams, none are more beautiful than the damselflies.

Although they are closely related to the dragon flies, they are by no means such masters of flight as the larger dragons, that dart through the air with an assurance of strength and endurance, but dance rather than fly through the shrubs and plants along the water-side. You will know these insects by their iridescent green bodies and black wings. Notice also that instead of holding the wings spread for flight at right angles to the body, as the dragon-flies do, that the damselflies fold their wings parallel with the body when at rest.

All damselflies deposit their eggs in water, and some species lay them in the stems of aquatic plants below the water level. Here they hatch and become naiads, or larvae, and emerge the following spring as fully developed damselflies, to spend a brief summer dancing, nymph-like, along the borders of water courses. I like to watch them; they are such graceful animals, and the flashing semaphoric wings and metallic bodies offer the final touch of color to the picture of life as seen at the stream-side. The larvae eat various aquatic organisms, and the adults feed on other insects, but it is hard to think of such dainty beings as blood-thirsty carnivores. Watch for damselflies on your next week-end trip, or along that stream that flows through your back lot.

Mr. Bennett Hutchison, of King Hardware Company, has acquired a pet that turns me green with envy. He has a pet fox, one of the Eastern gray variety. It is one of the prettiest pets you can imagine, and is very tame. He submitted to petting on first sight, although there was a dignity in his mien, born I suspect, of fright. The face of this animal carries an expression of intelligence that has characterized his race for centuries in the folk lore of almost every nation. I appreciate having had a chance to see the animal, and to enjoy the delightful sensation of standing near a genuine fox without seeing his bushy tail disappear into the tall timbers on an opposite hill.

British Rulers Complete 40 Years of Marriage

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—King George and Queen Mary today spent their fortieth wedding anniversary quietly at Buckingham Palace after a simple lunch on the royal train returning from a visit to Chatsworth. Congratulations from all parts of the world awaited their arrival in London but there was no special celebration to mark the event except that the royal servants drank to the health of the king and queen in champagne.

LINENS, FLANNELS ARE NEW FASHIONS DURING SUMMER

PARIS, July 6.—(AP)—Dark brown linen blouses with light string beige linen suits and black wool blouses with gray flannel street suits are smart fashion notes of the summer season.

The vogue for dark accessories with light costumes is seen in clothes for every hour of the day. Dark blue linen or organza blouses, navy hat shoes and gloves appear with beige or gray street suits; black gloves, hats and girdles are worn with white and black printed crepe costumes at the races. Brown felt slouch hats, shoes and gloves give a new note to beige tweed sports suits.

Light-colored sports clothes show many dark-colored accents. Schiaparelli displays a sleeveless white striped canvas sports dress with a belt of dark red and white checked elastic ribbon, while Maggy Rouff finished a white crepe suit for country wear with a little blouse of orange, yellow and white striped crepe.

The same effect marks many evening costumes. A white crepe dress worn with a short-sleeved jacket wrap of purple wool-backed satin embroidered in white wool flowers.

211 Persons Refuse To Return Their Gold

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Two hundred and eleven persons are defying the government to come and take their gold despite warnings by justice department agents that prosecution might follow their failure to turn in the metal.

Attorney-General Cummings said today in disclosing the number of persons who had refused to return their gold that almost $2,000,000 of the metal had been returned last week as a result of the department of justice campaign to force gold holders to dispose of it. It brought to $26,067,133 the total amount he said had been returned from hoards. The remaining 211 persons hold $1,207,057 of gold.

Emergency Expenses $9,291,220 on July 1

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(UP)—The emergency recovery program cost the government $9,291,220 on July 1, the first day of the 1934 fiscal year.

Listing of expenditures of this character was included for the first time today in the treasury statement. It showed advances of $8,412,118 through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; $765,944 for emergency conservation work; $111,617 for the public works administration, and $1,541 for the industrial recovery administration.

The federal deficit for the first day of the fiscal year totaled $80,709,217. Total expenditures including those for the emergency program were $85,073,234 and income $4,364,117, mostly from miscellaneous internal revenue.

KENTUCKY REPEAL VOTE IS URGED BY FARLEY

GREENSBORO, N. C., July 6.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley, here for an address today, said he had telegraphed Governor Ruby Laffoon, of Kentucky, asking that the question of repealing the eighteenth amendment be included in the governor's proposed call for a special session of the Kentucky legislature to impose a state tax on beer.

Farley came to North Carolina today to dedicate new federal buildings here and at High Point and in an address here reiterated his position that the amendment should be repealed and control of the liquor traffic left to the individual states.

FOLLOW THE Bible Game

$1,800 IN CASH PRIZES!

No. 6 The Bible verse represented by this picture is:

Book..... Chapter No..... Verse No.....
Name.....
Address.....

The Bible verse answer for this picture can be found here: "So the Lord scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth; and they left off to build the city." "Then there passed by Midianites merchantmen; and they drew and lifted up Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph into Egypt." "And all countries came into Egypt to Joseph to buy corn; because that the famine was so sore in all lands." "So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation." "And the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, and all the host of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them; there remained not so much as one of them."

(Note: This picture is drawn to represent a verse chosen from The Bible Treasury, an abridgement of the "Authorized" or King James version of the Scriptures.)

INSTRUCTIONS.

The total prize money to be awarded Bible Game followers is $1,800. The first prize is $1,000. The second, $400; the third, $100; the fourth, $75; and the fifth, $25. There are ten prizes of $10 each and twenty prizes of $5 each.

I wish this worthy venture very great success."

WHOLESALE PRICES RISE 1.2 FOR WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Wholesale prices are continuing their steady swing upward.

The bureau of statistics of the labor department said today its index number of wholesale prices for the week ending July 1 was 95.3, as compared with 95.1 for the week ending June 24.

The index, based on average prices for the year 1926 as 100, was 64.5 on June 17; 64.9 on June 30 and 65.8 on June 3.

The largest gains during the week ending July 1 were in farm products, foods, textile products, metals and metal products, building materials and house furnishings goods.

ROOSEVELT TRIES OUT NEW TOURING CAR

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(UP)—President Roosevelt briefly put aside vexing domestic and foreign problems today to drive himself through the White House grounds.

He was testing a new touring car intended for use in taking him to and from his house at Hyde Park, N. Y., which he plans to visit the end of this month for a 10-day vacation.

Speeding around the spacious White House drives, the president tried the brakes, pickup and power and pronounced the automobile accepted for delivery.

Fliers Pay Last Honor To Russell Boardman

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 6.—Russell Boardman was buried today in the plot that has been his family's for generations while planes, piloted by men who once knew him as co-holder of the long distance non-stop flight record, dipped in salute.

John Polando, of Lynn, Mass., who was with Boardman on his historic flight from New York to Turkey in 1931, stood bareheaded at the grave as flowers, scattered from the planes, drifted overhead, drifted softly to the ground.

Boardman was injured fatally Saturday when his ship crashed at municipal airport, Indianapolis, as he took off to continue his flight in a $10,000 prize race from New York to Los Angeles. He died Monday in the Indianapolis City hospital.

FIRST LADY DEFENDS WOMEN'S WORK PLANS

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(UP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today took issue with the national woman's party and solidly supported her husband's position that industry must establish minimum wages and maximum hours for women and children and limit night work by women.

Led by Miss Alice Paul, the woman's party is holding a demonstration here Saturday against the revival of the movement for "protective" legislation for women in industry. Members of the party feel it limits the opportunity of women to earn a living.

Declaring she believes in equal pay for equal work and equal opportunity in getting jobs between men and women, Mrs. Roosevelt described laws prohibiting married women from working as "class legislation of the very worst kind."

MAYOR APPROVES WORKS PROGRAM

Way Paved To Immediate Application for Federal Funds.

Approval Thursday by Mayor James L. Key of the public works program, calling for expenditure of $17,818,000, paved the way for early filing of Atlanta's application for federal funds made available through the national recovery act.

Raymond R. Torres, engineer-secretary of the city planning commission, wired Washington officials for application blanks and announced they will be filed at the earliest possible moment.

In sanctioning the council resolution which indorsed the program, the mayor said Atlanta should be one of the first cities in the state to be benefited by the rehabilitation movement initiated by the national government.

"We are ready to begin work on a moment's notice on some of the projects and are making plans for others," the mayor said. "We can brook no delay in making our applications and asserting every right we have under the enactments of congress."

Included in the projected improvements asked by Atlanta are renovation and modernization of the sewer system; construction of a new police station and auditorium; improvements of schools, Chandler field, Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanitarium, and many street and bridge widenings and constructions.

BANK CREDITS SHOW INCREASE FOR WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The daily average volume of federal reserve bank credit outstanding during the week ending July 5, as reported by the federal reserve banks, was $2,225,000,000, an increase of $29,000,000 compared with the preceding week and a decrease of $152,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

On July 5 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,206,000,000, an increase of $24,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponds with an increase of $77,000,000 in money in circulation.

3 STOWAWAYS KILLED IN SHIP FUMIGATION

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 6.—(AP)—Two men who are believed to have been stowaways were killed by hydrocyanic acid gas used for fumigating the President Garfield of the Dollar line today.

Passports found in the clothes of the dead men gave their names as Al Signor, 35, of Brooklyn, and Giuseppe Raina, 40, of Rue De L'Abbattoir, Aix En Provence, France. Although dressed as seamen, they were not listed as members of the ship's crew.

ARMY TRAINING CAMPS ABOLITION ORDER HIT

300 in Atlanta Area To Be Affected; Representatives Issue Protests.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Vigorous protests against the abolition of the training camps for the army reserve flying corps were lodged with President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Dorn, and Director of the Budget Douglas, today by senators and representatives from districts having army reserve flying fields, it was learned from Major General B. D. Foulis, Thursday night.

Drastic cuts in federal expenditures in all departments necessitated the move eliminating the 14-day training period for reserve pilots both in the army and navy, officials said.

All reservists throughout the country will be limited to 14,000 flying hours for inactive training, which is 30 per cent less than last year, but reserve officers will still be allowed to fly on inactive service without pay. Schedules on which this limited time will be used have not been completed.

The camp at Candler field will, with the others, be discontinued. There

Italy's King May Invite Legionnaires to Rome
VILLA SAN ROSSO, Italy, July 6.—(P)—The American Legion national convention at Chicago in October probably will receive a direct radio message from the king of Italy, National Vice Commander W. E. Easterwood Jr., of Dallas, Texas, said today after a lengthy conversation with the monarch.

The king warmly welcomed the idea of a Legion convention in Rome, which is contemplated for 1936, Easterwood said.

are about 40 reserve officers in Atlanta and 300 in this area who will be affected by the order from General Foulis.

It has not been announced how much money the move will save, but officials said the budget set by Douglas made it necessary to cut the flying time for the army and navy.

BRIDGE EXPERT SUES CULBERTSON FOR LIBEL

NEW YORK, July 6.—(P)—Shepard Barclay today sued Ely Culbertson for $100,000 on the ground of libel. He averred that in a recent article in his magazine, Culbertson, under the pseudonym, "G. M. C.," had defamed him in criticisms of omission of Culbertson's name from Barclay's annual ranking of the best 100 bridge players. "G. M. C.," said Barclay, means "Great Man Culbertson."

Whether further inflation moves are in prospect was not disclosed by the fiscal chiefs after their White House session.

ARMY PLEDGES CURB ON C. C. C. DISORDERS

RICHMOND, Va., July 6.—(P)—Prompt action of the army general staff to conditions around the civilian conservation camp at Roxbury described as a state of lawlessness, was assured Governor Pollard today in a telegram from Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work at Washington.

The Virginia chief executive telegraphed the emergency director to take steps to establish discipline after one man had been found dead beside the railway tracks, another badly beaten and four others lodged in jail.

AUSTRIA IS AROUSED BY NAZI BROADCASTS

VIENNA, July 6.—(P)—It was officially announced today that the Austrian minister at Berlin has been instructed to protest to Chancellor Hitler against the anti-Austrian broadcasts of the radio station at Munich. The latest broadcast from Munich was by Theo Hagbigit, who was recently expelled from Austria as the result of his activities as representative of German Nazis. It aroused angry denunciations in the Vienna press.

PRESIDENT CONFERS WITH BLACK, ACHESON

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt went over the government's credit policies and financial program in a two-hour conference today with Eugene Black, of Atlanta, governor of the federal reserve board, and Dean Acheson, acting secretary of the treasury.

"We have discussed credit policies and financial matters," said Governor Black after the meeting. "The president and the board are in entire harmony with the policies adopted by the federal reserve system and the plans for the immediate future."

Black said the open market operations by the federal reserve board—the first move made under the inflationary program—had resulted in the purchase of about $25,000,000 in government bonds a week for the last five weeks.

He declined to say whether there was to be any change in this policy or any extension of it.

"You will have to wait and see," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt, in refusing to enter a temporary agreement for currency stabilization at the London conference, emphasized that he wanted first to get American price levels to a higher point and to determine the true domestic purchasing power of the dollar.

Whether further inflation moves are in prospect was not disclosed by the fiscal chiefs after their White House session.

Prosecution Awaits Bread Profiteers
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—Prosecution of persons profiteering in bread will be inaugurated by the department of justice as soon as conclusive evidence of the action is obtained.

Attorney-General Cummings said today he was studying complaints laid by the U. S. Secretary of War, and plans had been made to unduly increase the price of bread in various sections of the country.

Bakers, in some instances, have said the proposed wheat processing plan was responsible for the contemplated increase.

Cummings said that after going over all of the data he would issue a public statement as to his attitude and that it would be followed by action against profiteers, if any were found.

He declined to indicate just what the action would be, but said it would be determined and designed to break up any practice of increasing prices more than were justified by the tax.

State Joins in Probe Of Lynching of Negro

CLINTON, S. C., July 6.—(P)—State constables joined local authorities in an investigation today of the slaying of Norris Denny, 35-year-old negro, described by Governor Ibra C. Blackwood, as "a murder—not a lynching."

Some 12 hours after he was taken from the small unguarded town jail the negro's body was found in a churchyard seven miles from here. A report was received that the body was severely beaten and his arms and legs were tied.

After a coroner's jury was impaneled and viewed the body, an inquest was postponed until next week as officers sought more evidence. The county physician reported Denny came to his death as a result of injuries to his head, which caused a fracture.

Informed of the case at Columbia, Governor Blackwood assigned State Constables J. W. Richardson and W. F. Newman to H. H. Hargrove, South Carolina's last officially recorded lynching occurred June 21, 1930.

Miss Chesney Weds Mr. Hansell At Ceremony at Daytona Beach

MRS. JOHN DANIEL HANSELL.

Culminating a whirlwind romance at Daytona Beach, Fla., comes the announcement, made today by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross Chesney, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Regina Chesney, to John Daniel Hansell, of Sanford, Fla., the ceremony having taken place Monday, July 3, at Daytona Beach. The bride and groom were accompanied by their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coleman, for a two weeks' vacation trip to Daytona Beach, where she happened to meet Mr. Hansell, who had been a casual acquaintance of the former Miss Chesney when he was a student at Oglethorpe University. The rapid courtship terminated in their marriage which was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Coleman and several other friends of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansell motored to Sanford, Fla., where they are visiting the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Pearl H. Hansell, for a short time. At an early date the couple plan a trip to Atlanta, where they will visit the bride's parents at their home on Maple drive.

Mrs. Hansell, the elder daughter of her parents, is the sister of Mrs. Erling Chesney, and was numbered among the popular members of Atlanta's younger contingent. She graduated from Washington Seminary in 1921 and was a member of the Sigma Delta sorority. The bride was a member of the seminary varsity basketball team and took a prominent part in sports in addition to participating in other school activities and making a splendid scholastic record.

Mr. Hansell is the only son of Mrs. Pearl H. Hansell, of Sanford, Fla. He attended the University of Florida and later Oglethorpe University, where he was a member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. He is an engineer with the United States government, stationed at Ocala, Fla., where the young couple will reside.

Miss Doris Hood Weds James A. McGill.

Of cordial interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Doris Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Thomas Hood, to James A. McGill, of Elizabeth City, N. C. The ceremony was solemnized Wednesday, July 5, at high noon at the First Baptist church with the Rev. W. A. Duncan performing the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

Miss Sue Wood, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a becoming gown of pink crepe with a wide-brimmed pink straw hat and she carried a bouquet of Brialmont roses. The ushers were Hugh Holcomb and Jack Davis. Dr. R. C. Williams was the best man.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, Stephen Thomas Hood. She was gowned in a white crepe gown with a becoming small white straw hat. She wore white faille slippers and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

The bride and bridegroom left by motor for North Carolina, where they will spend their wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Elizabeth City, N. C.

A number of entertainments have been given in compliment to the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. R. C. Williams, Miss Norris Dupre and Miss Louise Hayes entertained in their honor.

Mrs. R. H. Massey, in Nashville, Tenn., Hubert Andrews, of Thomaston, and John Garner, of Columbus, made a recent visit to Clarence Calhoun Jr., on North Decatur road.

Mrs. George Monroe, of Quincy, Fla., is visiting her sister, Mrs. James E. Dickey, on North Decatur road.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Barrett, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, are occupying their home on Clifton road. Dr. Barrett is one of the recently appointed internes at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Ramond Ferard, commissioner of the Republic of Panama, with his family, is making his home on Ridge-wood drive.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Bell have returned from Richmond, where they visited Mrs. Tom Bell.

Miss Gardner Weds Henry Hunter Pike In Jacksonville, Fla.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 6.—Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Elizabeth Gardner, of Sumter, S. C., to Henry Hunter Pike, of Jacksonville, Fla., formerly of Lagrange, which was solemnized Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Gardner, uncle and aunt of the bride, in Jacksonville. The marriage service was read by Rev. A. B. Hansen, pastor of the Main Street Baptist church.

The bride wore a three-piece suit of triple sheer navy crepe made with a beige lace blouse. She wore beige accessories and a shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

The bride and bridegroom left for a boat trip to Charleston, S. C. Upon their return to Jacksonville they will motor to Lagrange to visit Mr. Pike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Pike.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Pike, Mrs. W. C. Key, Miss Natalie Pike, all of Lagrange, and Mrs. Frank Daugherty, of Crisfield, Md.

The bride graduated from Hill Crest high school in Sumter, S. C., and attended Columbia Female College in Columbia, S. C. For the past year she has made her home in Jacksonville with Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Gardner, her uncle and aunt.

She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Gardner. Misses Laura Jean Gardner and Jetty Reid Gardner, of Sumter, are her sisters, and Samuel Williams, Edward Alexander and Earl Thompson Gardner, all of Sumter, are her brothers.

Mr. Pike is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Pike, of Lagrange, both of whom have occupied a prominent place in the civic, religious and cultural life of the city. Mr. Pike graduated from Lagrange high school, attended Georgia Tech, and received a degree in metallurgy from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Ala., where he was a member of the Phi Delta Chi fraternity and of the honorary chemical society. He is head chemist at the Jacksonville plant of the American Agricultural Chemical Company. Mrs. Frank Daugherty, of Crisfield, Md., is his sister.

Now ALLSTATE presents the World's First *UNBLOWABLE TIRES!

Result of a marvelous—a patented invention Superlastic Cords

25% to 30% More Stretch than stiff-side Tires... (hence No "Blowout Zone")... yet priced under other standard balloons

WHY? FOUND!

Tire failure is a chief cause of fatal motor car accidents.

If your tread looks sound, you probably consider your tires safe, but 95% of the ordinary blowouts occur—NOT through the tread—but through the SIDES—the "Blowout Zone."

Tire makers for years have striven to end dangerous blowouts by making rubber tougher, tires heavier, cords stronger. But tires continue to blow out, due to the lack of stretch in the stiff side-walls—the blowout zone.

Sooner or later, they no longer can stand the pressure of the heated air from within, and the blows from without. When you least expect it—BANG goes the tire!

Hazardous at any driving speed, at 35 miles per hour this is dangerous; and at 45, 50, or 60, is almost certain to hurl your car in the path of another, or plunge you into the ditch with tragic results.

Houser-O'Lenie Marriage Takes Place in Fort Valley

FORT VALLEY, Ga., July 6.—Miss Laura Bryan Houser, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Houser, of Fort Valley, was married to Stephen Vincent O'Lenie, of Rome, on Thursday afternoon, July 6, at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride on College street in Fort Valley. The altar was erected in the living room and floor vases held white garden flowers combined with luxuriant green of palms and ferns. Mrs. Frank L. Fincher, well-known pianist, rendered a musical program. Mrs. Glenmore Green, aunt of the bride, sang Greg's "I Love Thee" and "At Dawn." The Rev. J. H. House, pastor of the Fort Valley Methodist church, performed the ceremony.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. William Burton Collins, of Rome, who wore a gown of pink lace and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. The bride, a brunette of unusual charm and beauty, wore the wedding gown of her sister, which was of snowy satin, and a long veil of imported Brussels lace, a family heirloom, which was fashioned cap shape about the dark hair of the bride. Her bouquet was of Easter lilies combined with valley lilies and she was given in marriage by her father, John A. Houser. The best man was William P. Wood, of Selma, Ala. The bride is graduate of Shorter College, having received her A. B. degree in the class of 1933. She possesses an exquisite mezzo soprano voice and has been a favorite among a wide circle of friends in Georgia.

Mr. O'Lenie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew O'Lenie, of Charlotte, N.C. He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech in the class of 1927, having received a degree in mechanical engineering. He is manager of the Georgia public utilities in Rome.

After a wedding trip to Chicago, where Mr. and Mrs. O'Lenie will attend the Century of Progress Exposition, they will reside at Hotel General Forrest in Rome.

For a going-away costume Mrs. O'Lenie wore dark blue tulle sheer crepe, with accessories to match.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have been a busy man all my life and have made some money. I have recently lost most of it. What I want is a home and happiness. I cannot be found chasing money. I have no experience with women. I don't know how to approach them. I can talk to a man in a trade but when I approach a woman I am tongue-tied. I dress well and I like to see a woman in a dress well. I like to see a woman "make up," a little paint and powder helps a lot. What do the women like? I am looking for a big-hearted woman. I have never had a sweetheart, nor do I know how to go about getting one. Being only 45, I believe there is yet time.

A. C. E.

There is no attribute about which a woman will boast louder or longer than about thoughtfulness in the man who loves her. It is the proof of his affection and of his fine texture. The best way to win a woman's friendship is by thoughtfulness of the little things. The man who keeps her love is by thoughtfulness of the little things. A box of candy will cover a multitude of sins, a bunch of flowers will speak more eloquently than the most eloquent words. It will speak of the things that a woman loves.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Whitley-McGhee.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 6.—The marriage of Miss Sara Lou Whitley to Elmer McGhee was solemnized Saturday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Dallas, with Rev. Dallas, pastor of the Presbyterian church, performing the marriage ceremony.

Miss Louise Harris was the bride's only attendant and M. L. Johns acted as the bridegroom's best man. The bride and bridegroom left for Asheville, N. C., and upon their return will be at home at 206 Ridley avenue.

Piano Recital.

Piano pupils from the class of Mrs. John K. Douglas will be presented in recital this evening at 8 o'clock at the residence, 2022 Boulevard drive, northeast.

NEIGHBORHOOD UNION MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Twenty-five years of community service, not only to its own neighborhood, but to a large part of the negro population of Atlanta, is being marked this week by the anniversary of the organization of the Neighborhood Union, founded on the west side of the city in 1908. Originally located on Fair street at the corner of Midway street, the union started in 1908 with the first free clinic for negroes in the city and has since then been the city and the only clinic of its kind. It has thus operated continually for 25 years. One of the things which is most notable in its work is that through all of this time the physicians and nurses serving on the staff have given their services as volunteers.

The health service of the union confines itself primarily to children of preschool age and endeavors as far as possible to stimulate prevention rather than cure. Pre-natal care and instruction are given to mothers and they receive such assistance and supervision as may be necessary after the birth of the baby.

The influence of the Neighborhood Union has reached out far beyond its own field and has been instrumental either in the founding or operation of kindred organizations.

White and black, the union has

Institut Francais To Give Program

The Institut Francais of Emory University will give a program on Daudet's "L'Arlesienne" in the Grand Salon of the Florence Chandler Harris Nurses' Home on Clifton road, next to the Emory University hospital, on Saturday evening, July 8, at 8:30 o'clock. This program will feature the play and the incidental music done for it by Bizet, and later arranged into the two well-known Arlesienne suites.

Pierre Porobovshkov will give a short talk on "La poesie dans les oeuvres de Alphonse Daudet." George Raffalovich will discuss "La musique de Bizet," and Mrs. Germaine Grenier Brown will give a brief synopsis of the play and read some of the most dramatic parts.

The famous Intermezzo of the Second Suite and the beautiful little Adagio will be given as string trios with Mrs. Isabelle Bryan at the piano, Mrs. Priscilla Loomer playing the cello, and Mrs. Frances Hutchinson the violin.

The choruses will be sung by Mrs. E. H. Rose, Mrs. Ruby Brown, Mrs. Marion Merritt, Miss Eunice Lawrence, Walter Herbert, Ben Blinnor, Richard Smoot, Desmond Booth and others. One of these choruses is the well-known "Marche des Rois," the theme of which is found so often in the Suites. Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey will aid in directing the choruses. Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Goodner will play as four-hand piano numbers "Carillon" and "La Farandole." Those interested in French and music are invited.

Georgia Children Will Compete For Mrs. Talmadge's Trophy

Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, wife of the governor of Georgia, has offered a trophy to stimulate summer reading among school children through the library service fostered by the Parent-Teacher Association of Georgia. Mrs. Talmadge has made this generous offer through Mr. George Slappery, of Atlanta, state chairman of library extension, Georgia Congress P. T. A.

This magnificent offer from the first lady of the state will be read with interest and appreciation by the children, parents and teachers in the state. During the long summer months, with no school interests to fill their minds, the children are offered a splendid reading service under the library extension service fostered by the P. T. A., and aided by the state library extension service under Mrs. Talmadge's leadership. In this field the state P. T. A. chairman, Mr. George Slappery, has done splendid work in endeavoring to extend this service to every section of the state, especially the rural districts, where regular library service is not available.

Spiced Cherries Please Both Peter and Nancy

BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

The green grocer persuaded Millie to buy some dark red cherries. "You'll find many uses for them, ma'am. Now Mrs. Page, she buys them every year and spices them."

"Pick over the cherries, leaving about an inch of stem on each cherry. Pack them into well sterilized jars, putting in a layer of cherries and the jar is filled, pour into it 1 tablespoon whole cloves, one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon allspice and one teaspoon salt. Bring this all to a boil in the vinegar. Cool and then as I said pour over the cherries. Fill cans to overflowing, seal cans and set away. No, the cherries are not cooked at all. I serve this as a relish with cold meats and really, it is delicious. My guests all like them and as for my husband—he'll forget his manners when I put them on the table."

"Here is the method."

"When she reached home she put them in a jar."

"Why, of course, I don't mind telling you. You say you live in that brick house on the corner of the next street? Well, I've seen you ever since many a time. You must come over to taste these cherries. I think I have just one jar left from last year. Here is the method."

"You run over there and help Ronald Holman at the ice cream booth. He looks awfully busy. I'll take your little friend around and show her the animals."

Freckle looked surprised—then raised her eyebrows knowingly. "Excuse me, teacher! I gotta see a man about a dog license. Good-bye."

Curt Little knew he had been rude. But he had but one thought in his mind—getting Mary aside where he could question her. There could be only one Dr. Mansfield Sawyer and one Millstream, Va. And he had to know the truth.

As Mary smiled up at him shyly, flustered that so great a man should desire her company, old memories came over him in a tide of passion so great that they shut her completely out.

And for Curt Little the calendar turned back 20 years.

Mary was so busy picking out her favorite movie stars and drinking in the beauty of the millionaire estate of Curt Little that there was any thing peculiar in his actions she did not notice. Fairlyland! All her dearest little girl dreams come to life.

Curt heard his voice answering her questions, saw himself pointing out things that might interest her. This was another man taking his place.

He was back in Millstream, Va., on just such a June night—20 years before. It was like sitting back and watching one of the movies his own millions had made possible as the calendar of memory turned back to stab at his heart.

Back to his first wedding anniversary—and Gloria, his golden-haired, lovely Gloria. His 18-year-old wife. She had sold sewing machines then. Sewing machines! From house to house. Even then he could smile at the thought. For a week he had been away through the hills—200 miles away, selling to the southern housewives.

Curt had driven his two boys that pulled the old buggy furiously that last day. It was his first wedding anniversary—and he had promised Gloria faithfully he would be back for supper.

There would be fried chicken, little soft, fluffy biscuits—all the things he liked. And after supper they would sit on the porch in the shadow of the morning-glories.

She would stroke his tired head and he would hold her in his arms and tell of his love. Love that was so sweet—and so overwhelming that he was afraid of it sometimes. She was an angel—and he was such common clay that he would never get used to the idea that the golden little Gloria was his.

Such had been his thoughts as he urged the horses, clucking at them impatiently. It had seemed to him the last five miles would never end.

Then his home was in sight. It was a little white house with green shutters, at the turn of the valley road that led to Millstream Honeycomb cottage. Home!

Curt felt in his pocket to make sure the box was there. The little box that was to be a surprise for his Gloria. A ruby ring—no larger than a child's ring. But Gloria loved rubies and it was the best he could do, for a while.

Feverishly he tied the horses to the post by the watering trough. Then, tiptoeing softly so that his homecoming might be a complete surprise he walked to the kitchen window. She was not there. But there was a delicious odor of chicken, simmering slowly—and ginger bread.

He was tempted to go in through the kitchen and steal a little of it. But—smiling softly Curt stifled the temptation and walked around to the other side of the house. Gloria was no doubt in the bedroom making herself beautiful for him. Dressing in the little yellow dress that was his favorite—and made her look a saucy little daffodil.

Curt Little always passed his hands over his eyes when he came to that part of the scene. The memory was too keen. Relentlessly the calendar turned on, stabbing at his heart like a two-edged sword.

Softly, he had walked through the grass. Stepping on little dandelions that always reminded him of the gold in Gloria's hair. And he was at the window of their bedroom—and his breath had almost choked him with the joyful thought that she was so near.

Then Curt Little heard a voice. It was a man's voice. And suddenly his blood froze and he stood like one condemned to death before he dared look. A man's voice—and it was saying, softly, soothingly:

"Poor little Gloria. I wish I could stay longer."

Then Gloria's voice—enchanted—soft, sweet. It had never sounded so full of tenderness to him before.

"He—he will be here any minute."

"I may get a chance to run in tomorrow."

"Poppy will be here." (His pet name! How dare she!)

"That's right! We'll get in sometime next week, Gloria."

Then Gloria—he had gathered the strength to peer through the screen into the room then. His Gloria had held soft sweet arms up and put them around the man's neck.

"Oh—I'm so happy!"

Curt Little had stumbled away from the window. And like a man in a dream he had climbed back into the buggy and driven away. Hours later he was still driving—on, on, he didn't care where. Running away from memories. Sweet memories that had turned to ashes and left his world in ruins around him.

Then he had stopped at a little country inn. There he counted the money he had taken in the week he had been away from home. Exactly a hundred dollars—and two horses and a buggy. That was the extent of his fortune.

Gloria could have the house and the few hundred dollars they had saved in the bank. It was much more than she deserved. He told her so in the bitter, scathing letter he had penned—the only one he had ever written her after his flight. He was afraid to go back. Afraid he would kill his beautiful wife, whom he now hated with a hatred that sickened him. And he was certain he would have to kill the man. No power on earth could stop him if he went back.

On and on and on he drove. Weeks later a haggard man drove into the Oklahoma oil fields with two worn-out, half-starved horses. He told them his name was Little—Curt Little. And he asked for nothing but work. Soul-tiring, driving work.

And everything he had touched turned to gold. Five, 10, 15 years passed and, like magic, his oil wells spurred gold and more gold. His name became a legend in the oil fields. Curt Little—the millionaire.

It was then he went to Hollywood to sink millions into the motion picture business. The idea fascinated him. In five years he had become a power in the cinema world. Again—everything he had touched turned to gold. He had never had a failure. Some chance seemed to hang over his every venture.

The world saw Curt Little as a tall, splendidly built, aristocratic looking man with iron gray hair. Work in the oil fields had strengthened his physique and given him a powerful body.

Women broke their hearts over his prematurely gray hair and the searching, cynical look in his deep blue eyes. He was fascinating, aloof—appealing. No one knew anything of his past. Questions were answered with an enigmatical smile, a smile that increased the depths of the two lines at the sides of his mouth. A mouth that was kind, yet hard. Smiling, yet sad.

That was the way Mary Sawyer saw the famous producer as they sat on his great veranda at the top of the knoll where his house stood and watched the Movie Fair below. She stole glances at him now and then—and his face, now hard, now soft, fascinated her deeply. It was, she thought, the most unusual face she had ever seen.

If she could have known the thoughts that came to him—turning his heart to stone and his blood to the boiling point—she would better have understood his changing expression. In Curt Little's heart at the moment there was waging the greatest battle ever staged in his turbulent spirit.

The black of Mary's hair—and the pigeon gray of her eyes—something in the way she turned her head—every lovely little mannerism Curt Little noted. And his heart turned to ice.

Revenge, sweet and tempting, lay within his reach. A chance to pay an old score that ate at his vitals and made him ache with the intensity of his desire to hurt as he had been hurt.

Two hours passed. Curt Little heard him say to a little girl who looked at him worshipfully and breathed in his every word:

"We must see lots of each other while you are in Hollywood, little one."

"How can you bother about poor little me—a big, busy man like you?" Mary asked him in happy wonder.

Even Freckle, used to almost anything happening in her hectic, happy-go-lucky life, was floored when Curt Little and Mary joined her and she learned they were to ride him in one of Curt Little's cars.

"I'll call you tomorrow," the millionaire said, holding Mary's little hand in his at parting.

"Oh," was all Mary could say as the car started and they were on their way.

Freckle never too overwhelmed to talk—looked at Mary with an envy akin to awe.

"Well! You may be from the sticks, baby. But you got what it takes—whatever that is, Curt Little! That old woman-hater. And he fell for you like a ton of ticker tape on a Broadway parade."

Continued Tomorrow.

HELEN MOVES ON AS COAST RIVAL MEETS DEFEAT

Miss Jacobs Bows and Ruins Chances of American Finale.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6.—(P)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody moved serenely along toward her sixth Wimbledon singles title today, but the prospect of an All-American final in the famous tennis championships was removed as Helen Jacobs, her fel-

There Is Just One Major League, Insists Col. Til Huston

It was just the other day that Col. Tillinghast L'Hommiedieu Huston sat at the Cracker ball park. We were talking about the National league.

"Ho, ho, ho, haw, haw, haw," laughed the Colonel, who once owned the Yankees, holding onto his sides, which shook heavily, so greatly aroused were the man's risibilities.

"We are talking about baseball leagues, not the Epworth league," said the Colonel, going on with his ho-ho-hoing and his haw-haw-hawing. "Do not mention the National league in the same breath with the real league, the only real league, which is the American league."

This seemed like a blow at the old National leaguer and the Old Oriole, Wilbert Robinson. "The Colonel," he said, "doesn't know what he is talking about."

"Sweet Geraniums," said the Colonel. "Just you wait until the all-star game is played. The Yankee players will win it all by themselves. You wait and see."

"The Yankees will win the American league pennant. Washington? Just a lot of well-meaning boys. And the Yankee players will win the all-star game. It won't even be a contest."

"The National league. Ho, ho, ho. The National league. Sweet Geraniums. The National league."

The Colonel, it seems, was approximately correct. Because we find that Vernon (Goofy) Gomez was the winning pitcher. And Babe Ruth, the home run hero of baseball, hit a home run and drove in a couple of runs. Lou Gehrig, who is nominated as Ruth's chief rival, did not contribute a great deal.

A piece might be written for the paper on this point, proving that Ruth is the only real super attraction—always coming through in the clutch—living up to his traditional prowess.

But at any rate, the Colonel was about correct. The American league players were clearly superior. They batted .290 against .235. And they won the ball game with two Yankees contributing largely and well.

It does appear that there is just one major league. That is the American.

MAYBE IT'S YOUTH.

It must be youth—the American league being a mere strippling in comparison. And the prize fight experts (braaak) will tell you that a young, tough fellow is always dangerous because of his youth.

The odds are, however, that the American league all-stars and the American league World Series contenders win because they are better ball players. It is fair to suspect this because the American league teams have won three-fourths of the World Series decisions.

This would seem very odd but for one thing—and that is that there are more real baseball men left in the American league. A further contention of Col. Huston has been that the National league has degenerated into a business man's league and that one might as well belong to a group of civic clubs.

The American league, he claimed, has more of the old-fashioned baseball men in it. And they know ball players and how, when and where to get them. And that they knew more baseball.

The National league has argued that their league was a better balanced one and was not made up, as they insisted the American league was, of two or three strong clubs.

This argument is just a lot of old New England cream cheese because the facts are that probably the weakest club in the American circuit could polish off the best in the National league.

The American league all-stars had the all-star game won all the way. They scored four runs to two and had ten men left on base. The National stars didn't really threaten.

The baseballs did not seem to be so different. Ruth got his home run off the American league ball and Frisch hit his off the National.

The ball makes some difference but the greater difference lies in the men throwing the baseball. The stitches and the relative deadness or liveliness of it do make a difference. The National league is supposed to have the deader ball.

WAITING FOR THE HAIG.

The world, says a sentimental song, is waiting for the sunrise. Or maybe it's sunshine. But one suspects that the song is wrong. The world, the entire world, is waiting for Walter Hagen to win the British open tournament.

It would suit the world right down to a T, which seems to be the epitome of being suited, for "The Haig" to win. Not because they love the Haig so much but because they do not care so much for Gene Sarazen, the defending champion.

It is a very personal war between the two. It is not a phony one, put together for publicity purposes. The boys do not care for one another.

Hagen had the better of the warfare at Chicago. Sarazen, who has always abused the great American privilege of popping off, gave out an interview which said that any player, who had reached the armchair and house slipper stage of life as had Hagen, would be expected to be off on his putting.

When Hagen blazed in 11 strokes ahead of Sarazen he had a caddy lug out an armchair and present it to Sarazen at the 18th green.

During the Ryder cup matches, which the British won, Sarazen was openly critical of Hagen, the team captain.

There would be something most dramatic about a Hagen victory. He has been counted out of golf. The unanimous decision was that The Haig was through.

But no man, except Bobby Jones, has the faculty for putting on pressure when it is needed as has Hagen. Unless he decides he'd rather have some fun he is very likely to win the British open tournament for the fifth time—the title no British golfer has won in ten years.

CARNERA—SEA ELEPHANT.

Primo Carnera, the new world's heavyweight champion, is playing an engagement on the Atlantic City steel pier. He is taking in the modest sum of $1,500 per day. Dan Parker reports, in his sports column, on an ad about the show.

The ad, which appeared in an Atlantic City paper, was unintentionally humorous, listing its two principal attractions as follows:

Personal Appearance, Direct from His Knockout Victory

PRIMO CARNERA
The World's Largest

SEA ELEPHANT
It's Alive—It Swims

Well, the sea elephant would probably have to give away a few pounds at that.

CRACKERS LOSE TO PELICANS, 8-7, IN NIGHT GAME

Errors Allow Winning Run in Ninth Without a Hit Off Aube.

By Jimmy Jones.

Granting that the propensity to err is a human one, the Cracker infield last night when they kicked in the winning run for New Orleans in the ninth inning to cost Jack Aube a ball game and give the Pelicans the series opener, 8 to 7.

It was an uphill battle all the way for the Pelicans, for the Crackers went out in the first inning and batted around in lusty fashion, giving Teddy Kleinhaus a 5-1 majority. They chased Jimmy Moore, one of the Pel acees, into the shadows of the dugout after only one man was retired and maintained their lead at the expense of Charley Reddock through the sixth, being ahead at that juncture 7-3.

THE ILL-FATED SEVENTH. Kleinhaus, seeking his thirteenth victory, was on his way to the consummation of a masterpiece of south-paw pitching against a team carrying eight right-handed hitters in its lineup. One is led to believe that it was this fact and not the famous jinx number of 13 that eventually caused his downfall.

Up to the seventh, the Atlanta ace had allowed but four hits—two of which had been made by Eddie Rose, the only left-handed hitter on the team—and had struck out four men. Aided by several scouts putting the old Argus-eye on him from the darkness, seemingly was in for one of his best exhibitions.

Harrington, first up in the inning, however, singled to left and took second when Knothe followed with a single to right. "Greek" George, the ex-Ogden football player, batted for Reddock and scored Harrington with a single to right. After Ward, who had fanned twice previously, singled to left. Knothe, Kleinhaus was replaced by Aube. The Pel finished the inning by tying the score, bringing in the two runs left on base without the aid of more hitting, but with considerable aid from the first evidence of mental paralysis on the part of the Cracker infield.

MENTAL LAPSES. Eddie Moore was walked to fill the bases. Johnny Oulliber hit a hot shot to Susko, who elected to step on first for a putout instead of making a play at home. George scored. Rose was passed purposely, a wise move. Then Fleming hit one through the box that Aube should have fielded in the first place and which should have been batted by the Cracker.

Fleming hit one through the box that Aube should have fielded in the first place and which should have been batted by the Cracker. Fleming hit one through the box that Aube should have fielded in the first place and which should have been batted by the Cracker.

Then Harrington gave the Crackers all the chance they needed to retire the side by sending another boundary to Chatham that took a perfect hop to the little shortstop. Chatham fielded it perfectly and tossed to Rollings for what should have been an easy forecourt at second and the third out, but Fleming hit the ball with a line drive, Campbell already in the act of waving Autry out. Moore trotted across the plate and that was all there was to it. Knothe lifted a soft fly to Rollings for the third out.

Red Rollings is a third-baseman and a very good one. He ought to be put back there and Dashiell ought to be back at second. Chatham, used to teaming with a man of his own stature and tempo, was erratic and not sure of his tosses and Rollings cannot pivot on the double plays. Sheerin, who played third, struck out twice. Look for Dashiell back in there soon.

BARRON RETURNS.

Red Barron, the long-absent scout, returned to the city last night, but did not get into the lineup. He probably will get a chance in the outfield, although Sington looked better at bat with a couple of hits, even if they were a bit fluky.

The Cracker infield had their biggest inning in the first. Chatham hit a drag bunt down the third-base line that he beat for a hit, but made a complete circuit of the bases when Autry picked the ball up and heaved it into a remote corner back of the grandstand. Bonowitz tripled to left center, McKee doubled to center, scoring him. McKee scored when Harrington bobbled Rollings' roller. Phillips punched out a double, scoring Rollings, and Sington rapped one down the first-base line that took a wicked hop over Oulliber for a double. Phillips scoring the fifth run.

The teams met in the second game today at 2:30 o'clock. Fred Johnson is expected to pitch for the Pel with either Messenger or Ken Holloway getting the nod from Manager Moore. The latter was given a cheer by the crowd last night as he returned to the coaching lines following his suspension.

MICKEY WALKER BADLY BEATEN

By Bill King.

BOSTON, GARDEN, July 6.—(P)—The amazing ring career of Mickey Walker appeared to be nearing its close tonight when the Rumsen veteran took a terrific 10-round lacing from a southerner's fists, he managed to show but one flash of his old-time form, in the fourth and fifth rounds, when Bruillard slowed down his terrific opening attack.

Walker's margins in those sessions were slight. In the previous rounds he had attempted to land his looping lefts and rights, but Bruillard always managed to bob up inside of them as he bore in to dig his left into Walker's body and throw his stinging right to his pudgy opponent's head.

The veteran made a pathetic appearance in the final session. Realizing that only a knockout punch would give him the victory, he took long chances to throw his wide right and Bruillard gave him an unmerciful beating every second of the last three minutes. Walker weighed 170, and Bruillard 161.

SANDLOT NINES IN THIRD ROUND

The third round of play in the Southside league gets under way this morning on various diamonds with the Robins, Cardinals, Aces, Cubs and Braves all looming as strong contenders.

The Northside league starts on its second round with last time winners having a good chance of repeating. The Aces, who had a field day at the expense of Chosewood Wednesday, collecting 40 runs while shutting out the opposition, undoubtedly meet a stronger team in the Wildcats. The latter dropped their first game to the Braves, 10-7, but showed new strength by overwhelming the Tigers, 20-3. Wheeler gave just one hit for them in his game. The Robin-Tiger game at Grant park should be close.

The Cubs meet Adair's home lot, the Braves tackle Chosewood at Grant park, with the Indians meeting the Cardinals at Mowdy park. The Cards lost to the Braves, 11-10, in a big upset, but beat Adair, 23-4. The Indians won over Chosewood but lost to Adair.

The Northside league finds the Crackers exchanging with the Terrors at Kirkwood and the Rebels playing the Trojans at Piedmont park. The Terrors licked the Trojans, 23-0, in their first game.

Douglasville Loses To Buford, 8 to 4

Buford, Ga., July 6.—Buford added the name of Douglasville to its long list of victories by taking an 8-4 decision from the visitors here this afternoon.

Bradford hurled for Buford and gave up seven scattered hits while his mates were collecting ten off three Douglasville pitchers.

White led the hitting attack with two doubles. Douglasville 000 210 010—4 2 7. Buford 104 111 012—8 10 3.

Vines and Crawford Compared by Beasley

Famous Coach Sums Things Up Before Final Battle for Wimbledon Title.

By Mercer Beasley.

Princeton Tennis Coach.

(Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) WIMBLEDON, England, July 6.—(By Wireless.)—Comparison of the Ellsworth Vines-Jack Crawford stroke and make-up shows:

Best Service—Vines.
Return of Service—Crawford.
Best Position of Play—Vines.
Best Backhand and Deep Balls—Vines.
Best Volley—Crawford.
Best Overhead—Vines.
The Player Who Will Use the Best Variety of Strokes—Crawford.
Pronounced Weaknesses—Vines on high bouncing balls to backhand and Crawford the same.

Weakness on low balls to backhands—both players the same, with Vines just a trifle better.
Leading in speed of ball off the ground—Vines, both forehand and backhand.

Strokes that will win—Vines' flat forehand to Crawford's backhand, but the ball must be deep. Crawford will score from net position on short, sharp angle plays.

Both players will avoid short balls to each other's forehand, and play will be to backhands, with Crawford going to the net to force Vines to pass with fast shots. If Vines can hold the ball in play and have patience, he will get chances.

Moody Krahwinkel, Helen Wills Moody wins through steadiness. Her usual game is playing the balls to her opponent's backhand, using very few strokes. She mainly topped the ball that was sent either deep or short.

DOWN THE MIDDLE.

Mrs. Moody played a back court game and prevented Fraulein Hilda Krahwinkel from getting to the net. Fraulein Krahwinkel's stroking was very good, but she was not using the flat shot on either side and the hits she made went, as a rule, to Mrs. Moody down the middle.

The American star for the most part took five little steps to reach the balls sent her, while her opponent kept busy covering her backhand corner. Fraulein Krahwinkel's forehand carried the ball on the racket face, then up and over. This was all right on the high bouncing balls Mrs. Moody sent, but on the low ones the ball caught the net. Fraulein Krahwinkel's serve was nothing to bother over, for her body was not in the stroke and there was no speed off the ground.

Mrs. Moody is playing with her body mostly upright, with more wrist in stroking apparent. She used good judgment in placing her balls to her opponent's backhand and was able to vary the depth as well as the pace. The ability she has to tease her opponents in placing her balls to her opponent's backhand helped her opponent.

OPENING.

Mrs. Moody led the German player make the first move to end the point and then would go out for it herself because an angle had been opened. The principal weakness displayed by her was her backhand on the high bouncing balls when they were sent deep enough to force her back. She would lob on this backhand play, and there were no passing shots made by either contestant on this play.

The average number of balls hit during a rally was seven, which shows

CHARLES BLACK ALSO DEFEATED IN STATE MEET

Hoke Cooley Beats Medalist; Tommy Barnes Marches On.

By Dillon Graham.

GLEN ARVEN COUNTRY CLUB, THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Hoke Cooley, an Atlanta school boy, playing in his first tournament of any size, today eliminated Scotie Beverly, of Thomasville, from the Georgia state amateur championship golf tournament here.

Cooley finished 2 up on Beverly, medalist of the tourney, and enters the quarter-finals tomorrow one of the stars of this year's meet.

Lane Fulenwider, of Savannah, advanced in the tournament by defeating Charles Black Jr., of Atlanta, a former champion, 4 and 2, while Tommy Barnes, of Atlanta, eliminated Dick Harris, of Valdosta, 3 and 1.

Barnes in his victory over Harris played fine golf and was looked upon as a possible contender for the state honors. Two south Georgians, Johnny Oliver and Billy Eager, of Valdosta, stood in his way along with others, however.

OWENS BEATEN.

Oliver won from Johnny Owens, of Atlanta, 1 up. Oliver is a former champion. Eager defeated Bill Terrell, of Atlanta, 4 and 3. Oliver returned to form to beat Owens, who has been playing superior golf in the qualifying round and the first round yesterday.

Another Barnes, Pete, also of Atlanta, defeated Jack Bohamley, of Atlanta, 2 and 1, in today's competition. John Grant, of Atlanta, scored a hole in one in his third-flight match with S. H. Stringer, of Thomasville. The ace came on the third hole, which is 158 yards long.

Johnny Westmoreland, of Atlanta, eliminated Murray Soule, of Rome, 1 up, in today's play.

Tomorrow Cooley plays Billy McWilliams, of Rome, who defeated J. D. Kirven Sr., of Columbus, 3 and 2. Yesterday Kirven eliminated his son, DuPont Kirven, from the competition. Fulenwider, Savannah player, meets Tommy Barnes, Westmoreland battles Eager, while Oliver matches strokes with Pete Barnes.

Fulenwider went out in 37 in today's match, 1 over par, and including a 7 at the 7th hole. He was 4 over par for the distance. Eager, after being 4 down at the turn rallied, but could not overcome the Savannahian's big lead.

ONLY VETERAN.

Westmoreland is the only real veteran left in the tournament, the others being mostly in their early 20s or younger. Cooley is only 17 and Pete Barnes, Oliver and McWilliams are 20s. Westmoreland, McWilliams and Tommy Barnes are the only ones left in the tournament who have had any luck in former years. Both advanced to the quarter-finals last year.

Scotie Beverly, the Thomasville star, was expected to defeat Cooley in today's match, but had no ability for not doing so. He had finished 3-4, said Scotie, "and that was just too good for me."

The two were even at the turn, however, each recording a 42 medal against 39 par. Cooley's birdie on the 18th settled the match, however, when Scotie needed a par 5.

Young Cooley, after the match, said he had been lucky with his putts and did not deserve to win.

Two 18-hole rounds, the quarter and semi-finals, are scheduled to be played tomorrow.

CONSOlation FLIGHT PAIRINGS.
Scotie Beverly and J. D. Kirven Sr.; Charles Black and Dick Harris; Murray Soule and Bill Terrell; Johnny Owens and Jack Bohamley.

George Romanoff To Wrestle Here

George Romanoff, who played a role in "Son of Tarzan" and several other jungle pictures, will meet Sam Miller in the feature match of Bill Corley's wrestling program Monday night at Lakewood park.

Romanoff, who played villain roles, is also a villain of the mat. He has defeated many well-known wrestlers. Miss Clarissa Wright, Miss Atlanta, 1933, is to be an honor guest at the wrestling program.

Matchmaker Corley is arranging a suitable semi-windup and a preliminary match.

Romanoff is a well-educated wrestler and speaks several languages. He also throws his opponents in several languages.

Popular prices will prevail.

The Duke University coach turned in an 82 to place among the "select 32" in the first 18 holes of qualification in the Carolinas amateur golf tournament here yesterday.

Smokies' Dazzling Play Is Blinding All Rivals

Let Larry Gilbert Tell You of How His Pels Have Been Treated.

By Jimmy Jones.

Larry Gilbert, back on the rosy road to good health again, would be a very happy individual but for a certain ball club in this league which has just finished making his team, the Pelicans, appear very foolish indeed.

Still a bit awed-looking, Larry came to the city yesterday bearing new tidings of the polyglot outfit over in the Great Smoky Mountains which seized first place in the league as soon as the second half started and is showing no immediate signs of relinquishing it. Gilbert, who has spent 15 years with the Pelicans club—most of them successful years—admits that he never saw a club like the Knoxville club before and doesn't care if he ever sees it again.

"I never saw such dazzling pitching from a staff of castoffs in all my life as we looked at in that last session with the Pelicans," declared Gilbert. "We were shut out three times by Blethen, Hulvey and Adkins—1-0, 4-0 and 2-0—and all three of them finished up strong."

COX IS SIGNED FOR RETURN GO

Matchmaker Jack Gilbert announces that he has signed Wild Bill Cox, the Macon batter, who made such a good impression here a couple of weeks ago in his fight with Cyclone Smith, to meet Berry Baggett, of Dalton, in the feature bout of next Wednesday night's card.

Cox, who gave away 20 pounds in his tussle with Smith, put up such a great battle that he is being brought back for this show by popular demand. In Baggett, Gilbert is introducing to Atlanta fans Georgia's latest sensation in the boxing game. The Dalton boy has been boxing only a short time, but has already battled such boys as Dynamite Dunn, Carl Knowles, Red Baker, Buster Newberry and others.

According to Gilbert, Baggett is the idol of the fans in north Georgia, where they are confident that he is a real prospect. A large delegation of north Georgians are expected to be here for the scrap.

Frank Adams, the big heavyweight who has been knocking them cold as an amateur, will make his professional start, meeting a suitable opponent, in a six-round bout. Adams looks like Atlanta's hope for an outstanding batter and is one of the most popular boys ever to box here.

A special eight-round bout will bring together Roy Dunn, colored welter champion, and Hoke Finley, a local youngster with possibilities.

There are some opinions that the Smokies are playing over their heads. If they are, they're pretty consistent at it, is Gilbert's opinion.

Gilbert compared the present Knoxville pitching staff to one of his own at New Orleans as proof of the fact that one can never tell when pitchers are through in a warm climate, even the pitchers themselves.

He pointed out that he won pennants in 1926 and 1927 with virtually a three-man staff of Danforth, Martina and Karr. The following year, 1928, strength was added to the club but the pitching staff was left intact. Imagine Gilbert's horror when Danforth, Martina and Karr, his three aces, all fell down completely and barely accounted for 35 victories between them, whereas they had been good for 60 the season before. But for some reason, they were completely and utterly defeated.

Gilbert feels very good about the future of the Southern league and thinks Knoxville and Little Rock, doubtful clubs, will make it through since they have strengthened. He says Sunday baseball has pulled New Orleans through. The week-day clubs have been slim. He wishes Atlanta had Sunday ball and feels that if she gets it, the whole league will be stronger.

Stars of Game
Stars of stars in yesterday's American league-National game and what they did:
BABE RUTH, Yankees, hit home run in third inning with Charley Gehringer, of Detroit, on base, to furnish winning punch; singled in fifth and saved the game with a great catch of Chick Hafey's long drive against the right-field wall; struck out twice.

LONGIE WARNEKE, Cubs, scored first run for National leaguers in sixth inning after tripling to right; scattered six hits over four innings and allowed but one run. Struck out two.

LEFTY GROVE, Philadelphia—Relieved Alvin Crowder and halted National threat with three-hit ball over final three innings; struck out three; walked none.

CARL HUBBELL, New York Giants—Allowed one hit in two innings; struck out one; walked one.

FRANKIE FRISCH, St. Louis Cardinals—Starred afield and hit home run and single.

VERNON BRABHAM, New York Yankees—Pitched shutout ball for first three innings, didn't allow a runner to pass second, and drove in first American league run with a single in second inning.

George Romanoff To Wrestle Here

George Romanoff, who played a role in "Son of Tarzan" and several other jungle pictures, will meet Sam Miller in the feature match of Bill Corley's wrestling program Monday night at Lakewood park.

Romanoff, who played villain roles, is also a villain of the mat. He has defeated many well-known wrestlers. Miss Clarissa Wright, Miss Atlanta, 1933, is to be an honor guest at the wrestling program.

Matchmaker Corley is arranging a suitable semi-windup and a preliminary match.

Romanoff is a well-educated wrestler and speaks several languages. He also throws his opponents in several languages.

Popular prices will prevail.

WADE CAN GOLF.

LIVIN' N. C. July 6.—(AP)—This fellow Wallace Wade can swing a golf club as well as coach winning football teams. It was evident today. The Duke University coach turned in an 82 to place among the "select 32" in the first 18 holes of qualification in the Carolinas amateur golf tournament here yesterday.

WALTER HAGEN LEADS WITH 140 IN BRITISH OPEN

Ed Dudley Runs Second With 141; American Threat Strong.

By Frank H. King.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6.—(AP)—Despite a succession of blistering attacks on par and his lead, Walter Hagen, of Detroit, 40-year-old American veteran of the golfing wars, kept in front of the field today, at the halfway mark of the British open championship, with figures of 68-72-140, and a one-stroke margin over his big American rival, Ed Dudley, with 70-71-141 for 36 holes.

"The Haig," seeking to capture his fifth British open crown, was as steady as a rock during his second round with Dudley already in front of him and Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, in hot pursuit. Hagen got his second straight birdie four at the famous "road hole," No. 17 on the old course, to keep his one-stroke margin over Dudley and leave Sarazen staggering on the inward leg.

The champion, out in a dazzling 33, took three shots to get out of the "hill bunker" on the short 11th hole, carding a six. He took 40 strokes altogether over the last nine for a 73 and a total of 145. The question as to whether Sarazen took three or four blows in the sand trap on his "Waterloo" hole became so acute that it was brought to the attention of the championship committee, which ruled that three was correct, confirming the champion's six, and stated there was no reflection on the American because of the rumors of a miscount which gained widespread attention in the galleries.

A GREAT ROUND.
Although during the day, ten Americans shot par golf or better under ideal scoring conditions, but Abe Mitchell, the 40-year-old private golfing tutor to Samuel Ryder, contributed to a strong British rally with a sensational 68, five under par, for a total of 142.

Mitchell's great round, 33 out and 35 in, looked like a certain 67 until he took his only five on the par four home hole. It gave him a tie for third place, two strokes behind the leader. With young Fred Robertson, the British "dark horse" of the tournament, who has only been home a short while from a golfing job in the Ar-

Gene Sarazen was playing behind me, and doing it so well. I could hear his boots pounding the hard fairways. Gene was out in 33, and the 10th for another three, putting him only one shot behind me. "Old fellow, Gene Sarazen is after you now."

From the 13th I saw Gene in a hill bunker on his 11th, blasting away like a man excavating a subway. Soon the news came forward that he had taken a six on that par three hole, ruining what might have been a knockout punch for the lot of us. The shock of that six weakened Gene's attack, and afterward he did well to finish in 73.

The wind was not howling across St. Andrews today, so the course was comparatively easy, in spite of the hard surface. There were about 30 scores ranging from 140 to 148.

Hagen Is Confident Of American Victory

Boys Bunched As They Start Drive Down Stretch and All Are Dangerous.

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of stories by Walter Hagen, veteran American golfer who is leading the field in his drive for a fifth British open title, describing play in the current open championship.)

By Walter Hagen.
Written Exclusively for the United Press.
(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6.—(UP)—With only 36 holes more to go I am convinced that an American will win the British open golf title again.

After two rounds of medal play, I am still lucky enough to be heading the field, although it is bunched closer than I ever saw before in championship competition. However, Ed Dudley is in second place with 141, just one stroke higher than my 140, and Gene Sarazen, defending champion; Leo Diegel and Joe Kirkwood are tied at 145. Horton Smith, George Dunlap and Denmore Shute each have 146.

Any one of these Americans, particularly Sarazen, who is a great last-day player, can come through to take the title tomorrow.

Today's round saw just about the best brand of golf anyone would care to witness, and the hard-baked old St. Andrews course took a bad beating. It was a day of many thrills. It gave me a great kick to see the veteran British pro, old Abe Mitchell, smash through with a 68, five under par, and place himself back in the picture in third place. Young Henry Cotton, the excellent British player who heads the pro staff at a Beldian club, also furnished plenty of thrills when he came through with a 71, to gain a sixth-place tie with 144. After a bad start, Cotton played the loop holes, seventh to the eleventh, in five consecutive threes.

I am going to hang on with all my power tomorrow, but I expect a mighty close and thrilling finish—so close, in fact, that it may end in a tie.

GENE ON HEELS.
Sarazen was playing behind me, and doing it so well. I could hear his boots pounding the hard fairways. Gene was out in 33, and the 10th for another three, putting him only one shot behind me. "Old fellow, Gene Sarazen is after you now."

Guy Green Seeks Job With Atlanta

Guy Green, Atlanta boy who has been pitching for Little Rock for two years with great success, has been let out by that club due to a surplus of Class A pitchers and is seeking a job. Green saw the Atlanta-New Orleans game last night and talked with President Robinson about catching on with the Crackers. Green, a right-hander, is a good relief man and may be given a chance here later on. Red Barton returned from Florida, where he looked at Asa Hall and other prospects and reported he had a line on some young talent that may help the club.

CROWD OF 49,000 SEES ALL-STARS SETTLE DISPUTE

Hallahan and Gomez Stars on Mound; Gehrig Scores on Hit.

Baseball's Needy Will Get $42,000

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Needy, retired baseball players were the real winners of today's all-star game between National and American leagues. The gross receipts totaled $52,000 with net receipts estimated at approximately $42,000, which will go to the National Association of Professional Baseball Players, an organization formed to help old players in want. The official attendance was 49,000. Regular admission prices, 50 cents bleachers, $1.15 grandstand tickets and $1.65 for box seats, were charged, which accounts for the low gross. The only expenses to be deducted from the gross are those of the players traveling and hotel. The game was sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

retired the fire of the Americans, the battle raged on until the first inning ended with the home team leading 1-0. The National leaguers went out in order in their half of the initial inning and the Americans had one man stranded at Halahan struck out. But, after Gehrig had walked with one down, and then forced Gehrig to tap weakly to first base.

Johnny Gomez, the surprise starting pitcher for the junior circuit, drew first blood in the second inning to send his mates ahead. Halahan forced Al Simmons to fly out, but Jimmy Dykes and Joe Cronin could not get the Senators' draw walks. Rick Ferrell, Red Sox catcher, flied out to Chuck Klein, but Gomez slapped a hard single to left.

Chapman ended the inning by forcing Gomez.

The Nationals threatened in their half of the second when Halley and Bill Terry singled in succession, but Gomez, aided by fire support, stopped them. Wally Berger hit into a double play and Dick Bartlett struck out.

STAGE ALL SET

The stage was all set for the Bambino in the eventful third. Halahan started himself on the road to disaster by passing Jimmy Dykes for the second successive time. Ruth then stepped up as a mixed chorus of boos and cheers came from the vast assemblage. With the count one and one, he caught Halahan's low curve and bang! Out of the park it sailed, carrying the ball game with it.

It wasn't until the sixth inning that the Nationals could break through for a score.

Lefty O'Doul pinched batted for Catcher Jimmy Wilson and was an easy out. Warner, who cracked his triple and scored as Dykes threw out Pepper Martin, a hero of the 1931 World Series, but a bust today. Frisch followed him with a single to center.

LAST STRIKE

In their half of the sixth, the Americans scored tall their final out. Dykes opened with a single, sprinted to second on Ferrell's sacrifice and scored as Earl Averil, of Cleveland, batting third, Crouder, riddled a single to center.

The Nationals had another big chance in the seventh as Berger and Pie Traynor roared on third and second, but two Cubs, Gabby Hartnett and Woody English, acting as a pinch hitter, failed as Grove whipped his fast breaking curves across. Hartnett struck out and English cracked a short fly to Simmons in center.

Ruth stopped the eighth inning rally with his great catch and in the ninth, Grove collapsed. The Nationals, with ease, setting down Jerry Berger and Tony Cuccinello, of Brooklyn, in order. Tony, a pinch hitter, churned the air, a strike out victim for the triumphant Grove.

Frisch and Terry were the only National leaguers to collect two hits with Ruth and Dykes getting the same number to lead the American.

Of the two managers, that between the American champion and Miss Round was the most dramatic, with the English girl pulling through to victory largely on superior stamina.

BOTH EXHAUSTED.

Playing in blistering heat late in the afternoon they were both exhausted as they entered the final set, but Miss Round found a reserve of energy on which to draw.

There was little for the galleries to applaud in the Moody-Krahwinkel semi-final, the tall German girl—one of the largest women playing tennis—finding herself pitted against a tennis machine which kept returning the ball until the fraulein sent it outside the lines or in a few occasions.

The day was not a happy one for American fans, as Miss Moody herself lost out in mixed doubles, as did Elizabeth Ryan, the former Wimbledon champion, who was defeated by the English Davis cup player, Miss Moody was put out in the quarter-final round by Mrs. Kitty McKane Goffree and C. H. Kingsley, veteran English combination, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Ryan and her Spanish partner, Enrique Maier, were defeated by Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Fraulein Krahwinkel, of Germany, 6-1, 7-5.

that the players were content to be careful.

Heaven Jacobs misses her chances. In the third set, with Dorothy Rhodes she had easy balls to hit and then to the net to force her opponent to attempt to pass, but Miss Jacobs, either hit the balls into the net or way out. Miss Round was playing her spin drives off the forehead deep into the court. She matches this stroke with Miss Jacobs, who chops off her forehand with a backhand.

If Miss Jacobs had continued to drive as she did in the first set, her forcing shots would have earned credit, but two Cubs, Gabby Hartnett and Woody English, acting as a pinch hitter, failed as Grove whipped his fast breaking curves across. Hartnett struck out and English cracked a short fly to Simmons in center.

BRYAN, PARKER AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Robert "Lefty" Bryan, of Chattanooga, reached the second round of the quarter-finals in the national play court championships at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club today by eliminating J. Gilbert Hall, of New York, 6-4.

Karl E. Kamrath, of Austin, Texas, breezed into the quarter-finals by defeating Richard Covington, of Asheville, N. C., 6-6, 6-4. Kamrath plays John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, in the semi-final match tomorrow.

Staging a brilliant rally in the third set after losing the first two, Frankie Parker, young Milwaukee tennis ace and tournament favorite, reached the semi-final round after a gruelling five-set struggle with Berkeley Bell, of Texas and New York.

Bell repeatedly broke through Parker's service in the first set and recorded to his own cannon ball to lead 8-7. He then rushed the net in the sixteen games and won it by superb volleying. The diminutive Texan continued his slashing tactics in the second set, but Parker steadied down to win the third. Parker hit his stride in the next two sets and had easy sailing.

Gene Mako, the tall blond California youth, who is one of the favorites to capture the clay courts singles championship, advanced into the quarter-finals when he defeated Fritz Mercer, of Bethlehem, Pa., 6-4, 6-4.

MACON MAYOR HEADS HOME LOAN BRANCH

Notification of Appointment Received by Holden, State Manager.

Notification of the appointment of G. Glenn Toole, mayor of Macon, as manager of the Macon office of the Federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation, was received Thursday by Frank A. Holden, state manager, in a telegram from Congressman Vinson of the sixth district. Mayor Toole took the oath of office in Washington Thursday and will reach Atlanta within the next few days for conference with Mr. Holden.

The main Georgia office of the home loan organization will be located in Atlanta and branch offices will be established in Macon and Savannah, under the general supervision of Mr. Holden, but with local managers in the other two cities. Announcement of the appointment of the Savannah manager, according to Mr. Holden, is expected within the next few days.

Since his return to Atlanta from Washington several days ago, Mr. Holden has been engaged in completing the personnel for the Atlanta office and in making arrangements for temporary offices to be occupied until the completion of the new post-office, when they will be transferred to the present postoffice building.

Mr. Holden announced Thursday that he had entirely completed the roster of workers in his office and that there remained no more vacancies to be filled. He received more than 1,500 applications for positions and most of his time since his return to Atlanta has been spent in selecting those qualified for the work they will be called on to perform.

Pending the receipt of the final instructions from Washington, Mr. Holden is proceeding with the work of rounding out his organization and obtaining the proper office space so that when the time comes for the corporation to begin functioning, no time will be lost. Announcement of that date will be made in the newspapers of the state.

SECRETARY ICKES WARNS OF CUTTING EDUCATION COSTS

CHICAGO, July 6. (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes tonight predicted an American dark age if the public schools were "devitalized by economy."

"If at this critical stage we continue to deny educational opportunities to literally millions of our children," the cabinet member said, "our country will suffer through the millions, uneducated, undertake the responsibilities of government."

"What we are going to do about our schools is the most important question before the American people. Shall we maintain them on such a basis as will equip our children as citizens in a self-governing republic, or are we going to let them slip back into an era of enlightenment, bigotry and ignorance?"

Secretary Ickes was speaking before a session of the National Education Association's convention.

Sixteen County Cars 'Traded In' by Board

Sixteen heavy county cars, property of the county police department, were traded in with four automobile companies Thursday by the county commissioners, in special session, for an equal number of lighter and new machines. The new cars were obtained for a total of $7,988 plus the old machines.

The four companies offered the 16 new cars for the total price of $11,888 and offered a discount on the heavier machines for trade of $3,900. The cars disposed of were one Franklin, three Hupmobiles, four Studebakers, three Hudsons, one Chrysler, one Nash, one Pierce-Arrow, one Lincoln and one Buick.

Four Chevrolet are to be traded with the John Smith Company; four Fords with the Roswell Motor Company; four Rockwells with the Al H. Martin Motor Company, and four Dodges with the J. M. Harrison & Company. The exchange is to be made at once.

Chairman George Longino stated Thursday that he is to advertise for bids on the heavy cars in other county departments at once. There are less than 10 of these, he said.

Wife of Sam Aiken Files Divorce Action

Mrs. Estelle Hall Aiken, wife of Sam F. Aiken, serving a life term for the murder of his first wife and another man, Thursday sought to annul her marriage.

In her petition, filed by Frank A. Bowers, the attorney who obtained a commutation from the death sentence to life imprisonment for Aiken, she alleges that she married Aiken while he was posing as W. C. Shaw at Houston, Texas, on November 16, 1931. She declares that she did not know that he was a fugitive from Fulton tower nor that he was under a death sentence for murder until after he was arrested and returned to Atlanta.

She maintains that she married W. C. Shaw, a law-abiding citizen, and not Sam F. Aiken, a law-breaker, and therefore she asks the annulment and the return of her name at the time of the marriage, which was Mrs. Estelle Hall.

Child Patient at Warm Springs Will Christen 'City of Atlanta'

Emily Rosenquest, of New York, one of the child patients at the Warm Springs Foundation, will christen the huge Boeing bombardment plane, City of Atlanta, at the benefit air show to be presented at Candler field Saturday afternoon. She and a dozen other young patients will be brought to Atlanta by Arthur Carpenter, resident trustee of the foundation.

Others taking part in the ceremony will be Herbert E. Choate, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the event; Major General Edward L. King, commander of the fourth corps area; Captain Callaway and Cator Woolford, chairmen of the $100,000 Georgia Hall campaign; Brigadier General George H. Estes and Brigadier General J. H. Reeves, Fort McPherson; Governor Talmadge, Mayor Key, George B. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county commission.

Noted army and navy pilots who will take part in the air show will arrive at Candler field late this afternoon and will be met by a reception committee composed of officers of the Forty-fifth Pursuit squadron, "Atlanta's Own" air corps reserve unit, Winship Nunnally and Jesse Draper, leaders in the National Aeronautic Association in Georgia, will act with the welcoming committee as co-chairmen.

Entertainment for the visiting fliers will be informal, with dances at several country clubs scheduled for Saturday night.

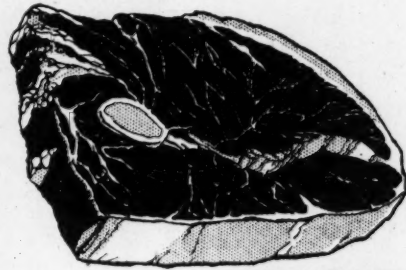

As a preliminary to the big show, which is expected to provide the most spectacular program of flying ever witnessed in this section of the south, will be a formation flight over the city Saturday morning by all of the military airmen who will take part in the afternoon event, to start at 2 o'clock. Announcements at the field will be made over a broadcasting system, with Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair, as master of ceremonies, assisted by Lieutenant E. C. Davis.

Admission to the field will be free, but a small charge will be made for reserved seats and for parking places. All proceeds will go to the $100,000 fund being raised for Georgia Hall, Warm Springs. Actual financing of the show has been taken care of through donations made by Atlanta businessmen.

WHY DO WE SELL SO MUCH MEAT?

We might just say "Better Meat," which is the real answer. But you want to know WHY it is better meat.

We are one of the biggest customers the packers have in this region. Naturally that makes a difference. Our buying organization is headed by a man who has been choosing good meat since 1907, and 26 years develops a lot of experience.

We buy so much that it is brought here in fast trains and solid carloads—which means that it is fresher when it reaches you. We sell it so rapidly in our markets that the meat you get has always just come in.

And—remember this—Every piece of Rogers Meat is U. S. inspected.
